3 Astronauts Are Debriefed By Technicians

Discussions Bear On Lunar Trip By Next Trio

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, back from 11 days in orbit, continue meetings with project officials here today and confer with three other spacemen who may fly around the moon in December.

Discussions between technical experts and Apollo 7 pilots Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham will have a bearing on whether the Apollo 8 astronauts get a go-ahead to rocket moonward or make another earth-orbital voyage.

The Apollo 8 pilots—Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders—rehearsed Wednesday how to escape from launch pad emergencies.

Navy Capt. Schirra; Eisele, who was promoted to an Air Force lieutenant colonel by President Johnson, and civilian astronaut Cunningham were described in "generally excellent" health after completing a physical examination Wednesday.

Schirra, Cunningham and Eisele flew to Cape Kennedy Wednesday from the deck of the aircraft carrier Essex. They were welcomed by more than 500 members of the team that launched them into orbit Oct. 11.

The three astronauts will remain at Cape Kennedy until Saturday, when they will fly to their own homes at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex., for a reunion with their families.

Thurmond Hits Wallace

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP) — A Wallace vote is a wasted vote, Sen. Strom Thurmond said Wednesday night as he wound up a two-day Georgia tour designed to woo supporters of third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace to Republican Richard M. Nixon.

Addressing a crowd estimated at 2,000, Thurmond said votes for Wallace would help put Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey in the White House.

Wallace has no chance of winning nationally, but he could draw enough votes to throw the presidential election into the U.S. House of Representatives, where Humphrey would have the best chance of being chosen president, the South Carolina Republican said.

Earlier, Thurmond predicted Nixon will carry six Southern states and Wallace will carry the others.

The six states Thurmond said Nixon will carry are Virginia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Florida, Texas and Tennessee.

Soviets Report Czech Pullout

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Army newspaper reported today that Soviet troops are pulling out of Czechoslovakia and said Russian villagers are greeting them at the border with bouquets of flowers.

"The local women have been treating the soldiers with apples, and one old lady brought a whole basketful of rolls," said a report in Krasnaya Zvezda—Red Star.

It was the first official word from the Soviet Union that its troops are withdrawing. There was no indication how many had crossed the border or when.

HHH Favors Arms Cuts As Step To World Peace

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today he favors an end to the missile race between the United States and the Soviet Union and a supervised reduction in military expenditures throughout the world.

Campaigning in a state where peace is a major issue, the Democratic presidential candidate also said the war in Vietnam must be ended and called peace "the paramount concern of all our people."

His remarks were prepared for a meeting with a group of Southern California clergymen. "We cannot live forever in a world where our safety and security depend on a precarious balance of terror," Humphrey said.

Humphrey said he would seek an end to the U.S.-Soviet race in defense missile systems as well as in offensive missiles. "Each extra unneeded missile only brings us nearer the day when we will be unable to stop the plunge into nuclear war."

Report Fire At Tel Aviv

TEL AVIV (AP) — Fire swept the four-story central terminal building at Israel's international airport today, causing damage assessed at well over $1 million, but there were no casualties.

International jets landed and took off despite a thick black smoke that rose from the building.

Officials ruled out sabotage. They said the fire may have been started by a short circuit in underground cables or by welding work being done at the building. Nevertheless, police were checking cars leaving the airport, 10 miles southwest of Tel Aviv.

The interior of the building was destroyed. None of the planes at the airport was damaged.

ican Richard M. Nixon in the polls in California, was given a boost as he started a two-day campaign tour of the state by Jesse Unruh, speaker of the California Assembly and one of the state's most powerful Democrats.

Unruh made plans to ride in a motorcade with Humphrey and issued a statement saying Humphrey is the candidate who could best reunite and reconcile a divided nation.

Unruh had previously endorsed Humphrey, but two weeks ago he bitterly criticized the Johnson administration's domestic policy as "almost as complete a failure" as its foreign policy.

Fayette Man Accused

Check Swindle Involves More Than $1 Million

Checks, tagged insufficient funds, totaled more than $1 million in an indictment read Wednesday in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court against a prominent Fayette County farmer and sportsman.

At press time Wednesday there was a mixup in the figures involving the checks. The 18 checks totaled $1,238,000 instead of the $238,000 as reported earlier due to a miscalculation on an adding machine at the courthouse.

TOM L. CREACHBAUM

Tom L. Creachbaum, 36, Route 2, Greenfield, entered a plea of innocent to the secret indictment returned by the Grand Jury here. He was released under bonds totaling $25,000 yesterday.

The 18-count indictment charges that Creachbaum, on five different dates in early 1967, issued 18 checks totaling more than $1 million with the intent to defraud. The checks were allegedly issued to the First National Bank of New Holland on an account with the First National Bank of Sabina (Clinton County) to cover outstanding debts with the New Holland bank totaling $292,897.61.

ACCORDING to an informed source the president of the New Holland Bank, its directors and the bonding company had made restitution to the New Holland bank for a good portion of the bad checks last year.

Creachbaum formerly had a big farm operation in Pickaway County. He currently operates a 440-acre farm situated in Fayette and Highland Counties.

Well-known in athletic circles, Creachbaum was involved in a ticket-buying incident at Ohio State University which resulted in a recommended suspension of two Buckeye football players through an investigation by the NCAA.

The secret indictment returned Oct. 11, by the Grand Jury culminated a 15-month investigation into Creachbaum's financial activities, which included the OSU incident.

The Federal bureau of Investigation and Federal Banking Commission were involved in the lengthy probe which disclosed that Creachbaum had used accounts with six different banks to shuffle transactions.

James Britt and Joseph Hands, both Columbus attorneys, represent Creachbaum in the alleged check swindle.

Disclose Ray Had Worked In Winnetka

CHICAGO (AP) — James Earl Ray, charged with murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., worked for two months in a north suburban restaurant shortly after his 1967 escape from a Missouri prison, the Chicago Tribune said today in a copyright article.

The paper said the disclosure by the owners of a Winnetka restaurant to FBI agents supplied the missing link in Ray's whereabouts since his escape from prison April 3, 1967. King was shot in Memphis, Tenn., on April 4 this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Klingeman, owners of the India, Trail Restaurant, hired Ray who was using the alias of John L. Rayns when he applied for a job on May 3, 1967, the Tribune said. He remained there until June 24, 1967, when he left unexpectedly.

The Klingemans did not learn that their former employee was Ray until mid-August 1968 when they were approached by a writer commissioned by Ray to write his life story, the paper said.

The couple then notified the FBI and were interviewed by agents on Aug. 24.

The Klingemans told the FBI that Ray received two or three phone calls at the restaurant during the week before he quit his job as a food server. Mrs. Klingeman also reported, the paper said, that on the day Ray left an unidentified man appeared at the back door of the restaurant and spoke to him for several minutes.

N.Y. Teachers Reject Offer

Other Municipal Services Strained

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking teachers have rejected a new peace proposal from the Ocean Hill-Brownsville local school district aimed at ending the paralyzing tieup of the 1.1 million pupil public school system.

Albert Shanker, president of the 55,000-member AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, denounced the proposal Wednesday as "a public relations gimmick" and drew foot-stomping cheers from 3,500 union delegates.

Elsewhere in the city's municipal labor picture, the firemen and police patrolmen maintained work slowdowns designed to force the city to reopen contract negotiations.

Firemen continued to fight fires and police to fight crime although the slowdowns were putting a strain on both departments. Efforts to resolve all of the city's labor crises appeared stalled for the moment.

The most pressing dispute remained the teachers' strike which has caused most of the city's 900 schools to be closed for 20 of the first 32 days of the term and has been marked by rising racial tensions.

In its peace offer, the suspended local governing board of the predominantly Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill district reversed policy and offered to reinstate 79 ousted white teachers to classroom duties.

At the delegates meeting, Shanker charged that the offer had not been made in good faith and added that the union negotiates with the Board of Education rather than local boards under its contract.

Bonn To Buy 88 Fighters From U.S.

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany will buy 88 America Phantom jet planes worth about $75 million to equip its air force, it was decided here today.

The purchase was approved by the Bundestag defense committee by a 16-1 vote after protracted interparty haggling.

The defense committee, which also approved purchase of 50 additional American-designed F104G Starfighter jets worth about $9 million each, laid down stiff terms to be met by the U.S. government.

A committee statement said a condition of purchase of the Phantoms and Starfighters is that before the placing of the procurement order, the U.S. government give a binding assurance that German firms will share in the deal.

The committee demanded that German aviation firms be awarded orders worth $125 million, or alternatively that the U.S. government award the German firms orders worth "a minimum of $50 million."

It stated that the committee also expected the federal German government to "render the necessary assistance in executing these compensatory orders."

Spanish Armada Ship Discovered Off Irish Coast

DUBLIN (AP) — The remains of the Santa Maria de la Rosa, a ship of the Spanish Armada sunk in 1588, have been found, but hopes of recovering her reputed treasure must wait until next summer.

When Lt. Cmdr. John Grat-tan, 33, of Britain's Royal Navy, surfaced in the middle of Blasket Sound with the cry, "We've found her!" it ended a four-month search in which 15 divers covered 3,000 acres.

The Santa Maria de la Rosa was one of 24 ships of the Armada which sank off the Irish coast in September 1588 after Philip of Spain's abortive attempt to invade Elizabethan England.

Sydney Wignall, 45-year-old Welsh businessman and chief sponsor of the search, said: "You'll get some idea of the difficulty if I say that we were like 15 Batmen flying over a town of 40,000 population peering into everybody's backyard to find a toy boat."

Blasket Sound, at the tip of the Dingle Peninsula, is pounded by Atlantic combers. Powerful currents stream between three barren, uninhabited islands. It's no place for amateur skin-divers.

The divers are silent about any discovery of treasure. Documents in London, dated 1588, say the galleon carried 50,000 gold ducats and 50,000 silver coins.

Scrambled Eggs Stop Motorists

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Scrambled eggs caused a huge traffic jam in the northbound lanes of Interstate 71 here early today.

Police said thousands of dozens of eggs were dumped onto the highway when a tractor-trailer rig overturned near the West 14th Street exit. No one was hurt in the accident.

Traffic was backed up for more than a half mile before it could be rerouted, police said.

Today that would be worth around $2 million.

John P. King, Dublin lawyer who acts for the diving team says: "We have been granted a license by the Spanish government to salvage Armada wrecks. We deposited a bond of $3,000 in return for which we may retain all objects of historical interest and 80 per cent of all coin or other treasure, the Spanish government retaining the remaining 20 per cent."

The treasure hunt starts again next summer, with underwater metal detectors, diver-to-diver and diver-to-ship telephones, water jets and suction pumps. It is estimated that survey and salvage will last up to five seasons.

Man Wanted In Slayings Still Hunted

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police continued the search today for a 28-year-old man wanted in connection with the weekend slaying of two Columbus teen-agers.

Police said the search for Richard Tingle, an ex-convict, moved to the Cleveland area Wednesday after an automobile believed to have been used by the suspect was found abandoned on Public Square.

Tingle is charged with two counts of murder stemming from Sunday night's holdup of a Columbus dairy store in which Susan Pack, 18, and James Stevens, 14, were shot. The store was robbed of $562.

Phyllis Crow, 34, night manager at the store identified Tingle from police photographs.

She told Columbus police the intruder tried to strangle her after his gun apparently jammed.

DMZ Action Only Major Fight Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported the lowest weekly American death toll in more than 14 months, hard fighting in the demilitarized zone in which at least 112 North Vietnamese were killed, and the loss of seven U.S. aircraft in South Vietnam in the past two days.

The total of South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also dropped last week, and the reductions resulted from the lull in ground action which has prevailed for three and a half weeks.

U.S. spokesmen said despite the fighting along the northern frontier and the aircraft losses, it was too early to say whether the lull was ending. They said the fighting in the DMZ was the result of allied operations, not the enemy's initiative.

The seven aircraft lost to enemy groundfire included a fighter-bomber, three light observation planes and three helicopters. Five men were killed and five were wounded.

Although there was still no word that Washington and Hanoi had agreed on a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam so as to advance the Paris peace talks, the South Vietnamese government appeared to be making a gesture toward getting the talks moving. It announced it would release 140 prisoners of war before the end of the month the largest POW release of the war.

The total of 100 U.S. combat dead last week was the lowest since the week of Aug. 6-12, 1967, when 82 Americans were killed in action. And the total of 589 Americans who the U.S. Command said were wounded in combat last week was the lowest since the week of Dec. 24-30, 1967, when the total was 437.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties last week also were the lowest reported in many months.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 132 government troops killed, the smallest number since the week of Oct. 15-21, 1967. The U.S. Command said 1,243 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed last week, the lowest number since Sept. 24-30, 1967.

South Vietnamese infantrymen and U.S. Marine tanks moved into the demilitarized zone behind a strike by U.S. B52 bombers Wednesday, blasted about 200 North Vietnamese troops from their bunkers and sent them fleeing after 2½ hours of fighting.

Bogus Bill Ring Broken In New York

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — A wife's request for police protection led to the discovery of counterfeit money printing facilities in a secret room and the arrest of her bartender husband, police said.

Secret Service officials issued an alarm for a second man and said they believed the operation was linked to a counterfeit ring that has passed more than $1 million in bogus money in the East during the past year.

Authorities gave this account: Mary Boatner requested police protection for a visit to her home after her husband, Coye, 36, had been involved in a shooting incident with another man there some 12 hours earlier.

Two patrolmen found no one home but discovered the door to one room was locked. Mrs. Boatner said her husband told her he has rented the room to a man and ordered her never to enter the room.

After forcing the lock the police said they found photographic equipment, plates and a printing press along with 35 $10 counterfeit bills. They waited and arrested Boatner when he came home at 5 p.m.

Lynda Bird's Girl Friend Gets U.S. Job, Trip To Chile

By GAYLORD SHAW

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Warren Lynn Smith, a close friend of President Johnson's oldest daughter, is being sent to Chile as a U.S. Information Agency officer even as scores of USA officers are being recalled from overseas.

Miss Smith, a frequent guest at the White House, was maid of honor when Lynda Bird Johnson married Marine Capt. Charles Robb last December. She and Mrs. Robb earlier had been roommates at the University of Texas.

Her appointment as a foreign service reserve officer came last February, less than a month after President Johnson ordered a reduction in government employment overseas in a move to reduce the U.S. balance of payments deficit.

Since then, a USA spokesman said, the agency's 2,100-man officer corps has been reduced by 89. Sixty USA officers have been transferred back to Washington from foreign posts, he said, and further cuts are planned.

In his January directive, the President also ordered all department and agency heads to "reduce official travel outside the United States to the minimum consistent with orderly conduct of the government's business."

The USA confirmed, in response to an inquiry, that Miss Smith was being assigned as assistant cultural affairs officer in Santiago, and disclosed she will visit four capitals en route to Chile.

She will leave Washington Nov. 4.

There are three categories of foreign service officers in the USA:

1. Foreign Service Officer. He gets his appointment only after passing a rigorous competitive examination.

2. Foreign Service Staff Officer. He, too, must pass a for-ign service entrance examination prior to appointment.

3. Foreign Service Reserve Officer. No competitive exam is required. The applicant fills out the necessary papers, goes before a panel of foreign service officers and takes a language aptitude test.

There have been only six appointments, including that of Miss Smith, in the third category since Jan. 1. The other five all had extensive experience and entered the service at grades paying up to $25,000 a year.

Reserve officers receive the same pay and allowances as foreign service officers.

In a government booklet entitled "The Foreign Service of the United States," reserve officers are described as "persons with highly specialized skills not readily available in the foreign service who serve for limited periods."

"With rare exceptions," it adds, "a candidate for a foreign service reserve appointment must have passed his 31st birthday . . ."

Miss Smith entered the Foreign Service at age 24.

Age 31 is mentioned in the booklet, an official said, because that is the cutoff age for eligibility to take the competitive examination required for regular foreign service officers.

Miss Smith entered the Foreign Service Institute in suburban Arlington, Va., on Feb. 26 for Spanish language training. When she completed the 28-week course on Oct. 4, a spokesman said, she had attained an S-2 rating—meaning she can speak Spanish well enough "to satisfy routine social demands and limited office demands."

In preparation for her transfer to Santiago, Miss Smith is receiving additional training at the USA and State Department here, but efforts to contact her for an interview were unsuccessful.

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking teachers have rejected a new peace proposal from the Ocean Hill-Brownsville local school district aimed at ending the paralyzing tieup of the 1.1 million pupil public school system.

A committee statement said a condition of purchase of the Phantoms and Starfighters is that before the placing of the procurement order, the U.S. government give a binding assurance that German firms will share in the deal.

The committee demanded that German aviation firms be awarded orders worth $125 million, or alternatively that the U.S. government award the German firms orders worth "a minimum of $50 million."

It stated that the committee also expected the federal German government to "render the necessary assistance in executing these compensatory orders."

Spanish Armada Ship Discovered Off Irish Coast

DUBLIN (AP) — The remains of the Santa Maria de la Rosa, a ship of the Spanish Armada sunk in 1588, have been found, but hopes of recovering her reputed treasure must wait until next summer.

When Lt. Cmdr. John Gratton, 33, of Britain's Royal Navy, surfaced in the middle of Blasket Sound with the cry, "We've found her!" it ended a four-month search in which 15 divers covered 3,000 acres.

The Santa Maria de la Rosa was one of 24 ships of the Armada which sank off the Irish coast in September 1588 after Philip of Spain's abortive attempt to invade Elizabethan England.

Sydney Wignall, 45-year-old Welsh businessman and chief sponsor of the search, said: "You'll get some idea of the difficulty if I say that we were like 15 Batmen flying over a town of 40,000 population peering into everybody's backyard to find a toy boat."

Blasket Sound, at the tip of the Dingle Peninsula, is pounded by Atlantic combers. Powerful currents stream between three barren, uninhabited islands. It's no place for amateur skin-divers.

The divers are silent about any discovery of treasure. Documents in London, dated 1588, say the galleon carried 50,000 gold ducats and 50,000 silver

Scrambled Eggs Stop Motorists

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Scrambled eggs caused a huge traffic jam in the northbound lanes of Interstate 71 here early today.

Police said thousands of dozens of eggs were dumped onto the highway when a tractor-trailer rig overturned near the West 14th Street exit. No one was hurt in the accident.

Traffic was backed up for more than a half mile before it could be rerouted, police said.

coins. Today that would be worth around $2 million.

John P. King, Dublin lawyer who acts for the diving team says: "We have been granted a license by the Spanish government to salvage Armada wrecks. We deposited a bond of $3,000 in return for which we may retain all objects of historical interest and 80 per cent of all coin or other treasure, the Spanish government retaining the remaining 20 per cent."

The treasure hunt starts again next summer, with underwater metal detectors, diver-to-diver and diver-to-ship telephones, water jets and suction pumps. It is estimated that survey and salvage will last up to five seasons.

Man Wanted In Slayings Still Hunted

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland police continued the search today for a 28-year-old man wanted in connection with the weekend slaying of two Columbus teen-agers.

Police said the search for Richard Tingle, an ex-convict, moved to the Cleveland area Wednesday after an automobile believed to have been used by the suspect, was found abandoned on Public Square.

Tingle is charged with two counts of murder stemming from Sunday night's holdup of a Columbus dairy store in which Susan Pack, 18, and James Stevens, 14, were shot. The store was robbed of $562.

Phyllis Crow, 34, night manager at the store identified Tingle from police photographs. She told Columbus police the intruder tried to strangle her after his gun apparently jammed.

DMZ Action Only Major Fight Reported

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported the lowest weekly American death toll in more than 14 months, hard fighting in the demilitarized zone in which at least 112 North Vietnamese were killed and the loss of seven U.S. aircraft in South Vietnam in the past two days.

The total of South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also dropped last week, and the reductions resulted from the lull in ground action which has prevailed for three and a half weeks.

U.S. spokesmen said despite the fighting along the northern frontier and the aircraft losses, it was too early to say whether the lull was ending. They said the fighting in the DMZ was the result of allied operations, not the enemy's initiative.

The seven aircraft lost to enemy groundfire included a fighter-bomber, three light observation planes and three helicopters. Five men were killed and five were wounded.

Although there was still no word that Washington and Hanoi had agreed on a halt in the bombing of North Vietnam so as to advance the Paris peace talks, the South Vietnamese government appeared to be making a gesture toward getting the talks moving. It announced it would release 140 prisoners of war before the end of the month the largest POW release of the war.

The total of 100 U.S. combat dead last week was the lowest since the week of Aug. 6-12, 1967, when 82 Americans were killed in action. And the total of 589 Americans who the U.S. Command said were wounded in combat last week was the lowest since the week of Dec. 24-30, 1967, when the total was 437.

South Vietnamese and enemy casualties last week also were the lowest reported in many months.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 132 government troops killed, the smallest number since the week of Oct. 15-21, 1967. The U.S. Command said 1,243 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed last week, the lowest number since Sept. 24-30, 1967.

South Vietnamese infantrymen and U.S. Marine tanks moved into the demilitarized zone behind a strike by U.S. B52 bombers Wednesday, blasted about 200 North Vietnamese troops from their bunkers and sent them fleeing after 2½ hours of fighting.

Bogus Bill Ring Broken In New York

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — A wife's request for police protection led to the discovery of counterfeit money printing facilities in a secret room and the arrest of her bartender husband, police said.

Secret Service officials issued an alarm for a second man and said they believed the operation was linked to a counterfeit ring that has passed more than $1 million in bogus money in the East during the past year.

Authorities gave this account: Mary Boatner requested police protection for a visit to her home after her husband, Coye, 36, had been involved in a shooting incident with another man there some 12 hours earlier.

Two patrolmen found no one home but discovered the door to one room was locked. Mrs. Boatner said her husband told her he has rented the room to a man and ordered her never to enter the room.

After forcing the lock the police said they found photographic equipment, plates and a printing press along with $5 $10 counterfeit bills. They waited and arrested Boatner when he came home at 5 p.m.

About a third of those who left the worst areas were Negroes, said the department.

The report added the unemployment rate in the slum areas dropped from 6.6 per cent of the total labor force to 5.9 per cent. The national jobless rate is 3.6.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says his successor, no matter what party he's from, will face the task of helping 27 million poverty-stricken Americans raise their standards of living.

Johnson told a meeting of the 23 Office of Economic Opportunity regional directors Wednesday that seven million persons have escaped poverty in the last five years, largely due to the administration's antipoverty program.

The State Department says negotiators made no progress toward release of the Pueblo or its 82-man crew Tuesday during the 24th meeting with North Korea. The meeting lasted three hours at Panmunjom.

President Johnson has signed a law increasing education benefits for veterans, extending coverage for the first time to widows of veterans who die of service-connected causes and to wives of veterans of service-connected total disability.

Stock List Declines

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined in heavy trading early this afternoon as Wall Street showed disappointment at failure to get hard news of any progress in Vietnam peace talks.

The big increase in volume over Tuesday, however, was due mainly to the usual building up of orders during the Wednesday market recess. A parade of big blocks, reflecting activity by institutional investors, boosted turnover.

In earliest trading, gains outnumbered losses on the New York Stock Exchange, but this situation was rapidly reversed and losers paced gainers by some 100 issues as the afternoon got under way.

Weakness in blue chips dragged at averages and made the loss seem even more severe than it was on an advance-decline basis.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 5.22 to 957.92.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.7 at 356.1, with industrials off 1.8, rails off 2.2, and utilities up .1.

On the American Stock Exchange, selective strength appeared in an irregular list.

Plane Flown To Havana Returning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The small plane hijacked to Cuba Wednesday is on its way back to Florida, State Department officials reported today.

They said the craft left Havana at mid-morning.

The Havana newspaper Granma had reported the plane would be permitted to return to the United States after processing.

The hijacker remained unidentified, but the pilot was Charles Victor Oliveros, an American. The pilot said the passenger hired the plane to take him from Key West to Dry Tortugas, the newspaper reported.

The hijacker took over the radio out of Key West Thursday to say he was seizing control of the plane, a Cessna 171. The plane landed at Jose Marti International Airport near Havana Thursday afternoon.

Hard Work For $5

Burglars did some hard work to rob the J. B. Sprouse Grocery Store in Commercial Point of $5.

The burglars entered the store Wednesday by an outside basement door which they had to break the lock on, according to a report by Deputy Sheriff George Linder.

After entering the basement the thieves made their way through the hot air vents to the second floor where they found $5 in half-dollar coins. There was no other money in the store and no merchandise was taken.

The incident is still under investigation.

Priests Given Word: Don't Fight Pope

LONDON (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishops of England and Wales gave their priests a virtual ultimatum today that they must refrain from opposing papal teaching in all matters of faith and morals.

Those unwilling to do so can be removed at the discretion of their bishop, said a letter from John Cardinal Heenan, head of the hierarchy, following a three-day meeting of the bishops last week.

It was the second meeting the Bishops had held in a month to decide a policy toward priests who oppose Pope Paul's encyclical forbidding artificial means of birth control.

Already several such priests have been suspended from preaching and hearing confession. Others have been sent on enforced vacation.

Berger To Buy Incinerator, Water Softener

Berger Hospital's Board of Governors, in a brief monthly session Wednesday night, authorized the administrator to seek bids for an incinerator and new water softener.

Both the water softening equipment and the incinerator at the hospital need replacement, according to a report by Henry Schroeder, board member.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt, board chairman, asked that efforts be geared to getting the hospital accredited. He noted that the board and administration should "quit dragging their feet" and get on with the mock inspection to be conducted by the Ohio Hospital Administration.

Gerhardt's criticism was spurred by the board's decision to seek a "dry run" inspection about six months ago.

James Stambaugh, administrator, told the board that the air conditioning system would be completed as soon as the housing on one unit was installed.

The dead: Paul Braskett, 54, Columbus. Robert Briskford, 33, Luckey, Wood County.

Braskett was injured fatally early Thursday when struck by a cab driven by William Thack-34, 41, also of Columbus. Police reported that Braskett had parked his cab momentarily and was walking across a street when struck by Thacker's taxi. Braskett and Thacker, both employed by the Safety Taxicab Co., were casual acquaintances.

Funds Freed For School, Park Work

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board approved today release of $17,522,450 to the Department of Education to assist nine local school districts in building new schools and other projects.

The department said the districts could not provide the necessary classroom facilities with available local funds. Suspend Search For 2 Ohio Men

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Coast Guard said Wednesday it has suspended formal search efforts for two Ohio men missing since last Thursday on a flight from Bay City, Mich., to Oberlin.

Nicholas Perez, 22, and his nephew, Hector A. Perez, 24, both of Lorain, were reported missing after picking up an amphibious plane in Bay City and taking off for Ohio.

Unrest In Occupied Jordan Brings Curfew By Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP) — Troops and armored cars patrolled the twisting alleyways of East Jerusalem today as Arab unrest spread in occupied Jordan.

A 24-hour curfew was listed at Ramallah, where 300 chanting Arab schoolgirls were dispersed by police with water hoses Wednesday. The curfew of Al Bireh was also relaxed.

But the military clamped down on Nablus, one of the main cities in the West Bank and declared a curfew there. A number of persons were reported arrested.

Another curfew was declared in Jenin after a demonstration by 100 boy and girl students. It was the first time since the rash of demonstrations began almost a week ago that boys had joined. They usually stayed clear because Israeli troops tend to deal more gently with girls.

Most schools throughout the northern sector of the West Bank were open, but few pupils were believed in their classes.

The state radio reported Defense Minister Moshe Dayan met the mayors of Ramallah and El Bireh. There were no details on what was discussed.

Newsman who tried to telephone Arab leaders in those towns were told by the Israeli post office that calls were not possible.

In Tel Aviv, military spokesmen reported four Arab saboteurs were killed and a fifth wounded Wednesday night when the guerrillas ran into an Israeli army patrol at Umm Sidra, in the Jordan Valley.

No Israeli casualties were reported. The wounded Arab was taken prisoner, the army said.

Spacecraft Is Landed At Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Apollo 7, whose 11-day space flight was accompanied by the curiosity of millions, was quietly brought ashore here today and unceremoniously loaded onto a truck for the last leg of its momentous journey.

Only a few bystanders were at dockside when the golden, gleaming spacecraft arrived aboard the carrier USS Essex to which it had been brought after splashing down Tuesday in the Atlantic.

There was none of the excitement today that welcomed earlier spacecraft ashore at such points as Mayport, Fla., when a crane lifted Apollo 7, tilting it slightly and spilling gallons of water from its blackened heat shield.

Officials said the Apollo 7 could have absorbed as much as 2,000 gallons during the short period it was afloat off Bermuda before it was carried by helicopter to the Essex.

Not even its three-man crew — Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Lt. Col. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham — was on hand today. They were flown Wednesday to Cape Kennedy.

The gold foil covering the 32-389-pound spacecraft has peeled and flaked in spots, but enough remained to give it a shiny, festive appearance.

Apollo 7 is to be trucked to a nearby airfield to be flown in an Air Force C130B to Long Beach, Calif., where it will be hauled to the North American Rockwell Co. plant for study.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Herald that Mary Heeter of 611 Guilford St. received a bachelor of education degree from Ohio University at the end of the summer term. The news release from the university should have read that Mrs. Jack Heeter received a BS degree from the university at the end of the spring term.

Edward Kennedy Calls For Repudiation Of Wallace Bid

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy invoked the names of his late brothers today in calling for repudiation of George C. Wallace's third party "for the health of our country and our future as a nation."

He said he was addressing his plea to voters drawn toward the former Alabama governor after supporting President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, both of whom were assassinated.

"President Kennedy defended America against the extremists," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "George Wallace is in league with them."

"Robert Kennedy stood for reconciliation between the races," he continued. "George Wallace stands for division and suppression."

"My brothers believed in the dignity of man," Kennedy said, asking:

"How can those who stood with them support a man whose agents used cattle prods and dogs against human beings in Alabama?"

Kennedy commented in a speech prepared for a luncheon of the New Bedford Service Clubs and Area Labor Council.

The Wallace forces anticipate strong support from rank-and-file union members throughout the country.

In his prepared remarks, Kennedy made a brief reference to the outset of his support for the Democratic national candidate, without naming them, then devoted the rest of his speech to a sharp attack on Wallace and his American Independent party.

"It is not enough that this movement be defeated, it must be repudiated," Kennedy said.

"A significant vote this year would turn this movement into a permanent party of division and hate, seeking to elect mayors and congressmen as well as presidents," he told his audience.

"The third party is organized, directed and underwritten by the extremist movement, which is using the party as a vehicle to power," he added.

Edward Kennedy Calls For Repudiation Of Wallace Bid

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy invoked the names of his late brothers today in calling for repudiation of George C. Wallace's third party "for the health of our country and our future as a nation."

He said he was addressing his plea to voters drawn toward the former Alabama governor after supporting President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, both of whom were assassinated.

"President Kennedy defended America against the extremists," the Massachusetts Democrat said. "George Wallace is in league with them."

"Robert Kennedy stood for reconciliation between the races," he continued. "George Wallace stands for division and suppression."

"My brothers believed in the dignity of man," Kennedy said, asking:

"How can those who stood with them support a man whose agents used cattle prods and dogs against human beings in Alabama?"

Kennedy commented in a speech prepared for a luncheon of the New Bedford Service Clubs and Area Labor Council.

The Wallace forces anticipate strong support from rank-and-file union members throughout the country.

In his prepared remarks, Kennedy made a brief reference to the outset of his support for the Democratic national candidate, without naming them, then devoted the rest of his speech to a sharp attack on Wallace and his American Independent party.

"It is not enough that this movement be defeated, it must be repudiated," Kennedy said.

"A significant vote this year would turn this movement into a permanent party of division and hate, seeking to elect mayors and congressmen as well as presidents," he told his audience.

"The third party is organized, directed and underwritten by the extremist movement, which is using the party as a vehicle to power," he added.

Th hijacker took over the radio out of Key West Thursday to say he was seizing control of the plane, a Cessna 17. The plane landed at Jose Marti International Airport near Havana Thursday afternoon.

Berger To Buy Incinerator, Water Softener

Berger Hospital's Board of Governors, in a brief monthly session Wednesday night, authorized the administrator to seek bids for an incinerator and new water softener.

Both the water softening equipment and the incinerator at the hospital need replacement, according to a report by Henry Schroeder, board member.

Mayor Richard Gerhardt, board chairman, asked that efforts be geared to getting the hospital accredited. He noted that the board and administration should "quit dragging their feet" and get on with the mock inspection to be conducted by the Ohio Hospital Administration.

Gerhardt's criticism was spurred by the board's decision to seek a "dry run" inspection about six months ago.

James Stambaugh, administrator, told the board that the air conditioning system would be completed as soon as the housing on one unit was installed.

Unrest In Occupied Jordan Brings Curfew By Israelis

JERUSALEM (AP)—Troops and armored cars patrolled the twisting alleysways of East Jerusalem today as Arab unrest spread in occupied Jordan.

A 24-hour curfew was listed at Ramallah, where 500 chanting Arab schoolgirls were dispersed by police with water hoses Wednesday. The curfew of Al Birah was also relaxed.

But the military clamped down on Nablus, one of the main cities in the West Bank and declared a curfew there. A number of persons were reported arrested.

Another curfew was declared in Jenin after a demonstration by 100 boy and girl students. It was the first time since the rash of demonstrations began almost a week ago that boys had joined. They usually stayed clear because Israeli troops tend to deal more gently with girls.

Most schools throughout the northern sector of the West Bank were open, but few pupils were believed in their classes.

The state radio reported Defense Minister Moshe Dayan met the mayors of Ramallah and El Birah. There were no details on what was discussed.

Newsman who tried to telephone Arab leaders in those towns were told by the Israeli post office that calls were not possible.

In Tel Aviv, military spokesmen reported four Arab saboteurs were killed and a fifth wounded Wednesday night when the guerrillas ran into an Israeli army patrol at Umm Sidra, in the Jordan Valley.

No Israeli casualties were reported. The wounded Arab was taken prisoner, the army said.

Spacecraft Is Landed At Norfolk

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Apollo 7, whose 11-day space flight was accompanied by the curiosity of millions, was quietly brought ashore here today and unceremoniously loaded onto a truck for the last leg of its momentous journey.

Only a few bystanders were at dockside when the golden, gleaming spacecraft arrived aboard the carrier USS Essex to which it had been brought after splashing down Tuesday in the Atlantic.

There was none of the excitement today that welcomed earlier spacecraft ashore at such points as Mayport, Fla., when a crane lifted Apollo 7, tilting it slightly and spilling gallons of water from its blackened heat shield.

Officials said the Apollo 7 could have absorbed as much as 2,000 gallons during the short period it was aloft off Bermuda before it was carried by helicopter to the Essex.

Not even its three-man crew—Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Lt. Col. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham—was on hand today. They were flown Wednesday to Cape Kennedy.

The gold foil covering the 32,389-pound spacecraft has peeled and flaked in spots, but enough remained to give it a shiny, festive appearance.

Apollo 7 is to be trucked to a nearby airfield to be flown in an Air Force C133B to Long Beach, Calif., where it will be hauled to the North American Rockwell Co. plant for study.

Correction
It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Herald that Mary Heeter of 611 Guilford St. received a bachelor of education degree from Ohio University at the end of the summer term. The news release from the university should have read that Mrs. Jack Heeter received a BS degree from the university at the end of the spring term.

Suspend Search For 2 Ohio Men
CLEVELAND (AP)—The Coast Guard said Wednesday it has suspended formal search efforts for two Ohio men missing since last Thursday on a flight from Bay City, Mich., to Oberlin.

Nicholas Perez, 32, and his nephew, Hector A. Perez, 24, both of Lorain, were reported missing after picking up an amphibious plane in Bay City and taking off for Ohio.

Already several such priests have been suspended from preaching and hearing confession. Others have been sent on enforced vacation.

Saxbe Endorsed
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Akron Beacon Journal today endorsed Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe, the Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

The National Apple Institute claims that eating an apple cleans teeth, massages gums and removes bacteria.

WHEN THOUGHTS RUN TOO DEEP FOR WORDS OR TEARS

There are moments so moving that only the gentle gift of flowers expresses what is most deeply felt. This natural gesture creates a special tie between those who remember together...the beauty of flowers eases the ache of a shared loss. NEW YORK (AP) — The television viewer who wants to go places and see things had an opportunity for a lot of vicarious travel Wednesday night.

By tuning in the first National Geographic Society special of the CBS season, he could have had a quick trip around a lot of national parks from Hawaii to the Virgin Islands, from Yellowstone to the Grand Canyon.

A bit later came ABC's "Sophia," with some glimpses of the multimillion dollar Roman villa of the Italian film star, Sophia Loren, plus some sights of Rome and Naples.

And then there was a tour of a real Hollywood film studio which served as the background for NBC's special, "The Bing Crosby Show."

If this was not enough action there was on NBC's "Music Hall" an antiseptic stimulation of a freewheeling theatrical rite, a Friars' roast, with a number of top comedians sitting at a banquet table with each given a turn insulting the guest of honor, Johnny Carson.

The most exciting film consisted of some color shots of a Hawaiian volcano as it erupted.

The most interesting segment was aerial film over Yellowstone during a roundup of elk, herded into a corral by helicopters acting like airborne cow ponies.

"Sophia" was pretty much of a hodgepodge and never seemed able to decide whether to take a fan magazine attack or an in-depth approach.

It was saved by the frank and forthright narration by the star who told, with touching casualness, of her illegitimate birth and of the poverty and hunger during the war years as well as the difficult days before she emerged as a contemporary sex symbol.

The combination of Bing Crosby and Bob Hope always results in some pleasant moments and the two old battlers were busily insulting each other during the Crosby special. In addition there were some interesting moments against the studio backgrounds. One came when Diana Ross and the Supremes sang a Western dirge on a Western main street set while stunt men tumbled in the dust all around them.

After that rich menu of specials, tonight will seem like diet fare. There is but one special in the lineup, but it holds considerable entertainment promise: "Girl Friends and Nabors" on CBS-8.9 EDT—with Jim Nabors out of his Gomer Pyle

Poll Shows Saxbe Ahead

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A poll conducted by The Cleveland Plain Dealer shows Republican William B. Saxbe leading his rival John J. Gilligan in the Ohio senatorial race.

In a copyrighted story published today, The Plain Dealer said 44.6 per cent of 1,330 Ohio voters canvassed preferred Saxbe, 38.6 favored Gilligan and 16.8 were undecided.

"The large undecided vote in Ohio could work to Gilligan's benefit but most often the undecided vote duplicates that of the declared voters," The Plain Dealer said.

Indecision in the Senate race stemmed from two factors, the newspaper added.

Many voters did not know the candidates and a large number of Democrats who have decided to vote for Republican presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon were unsure whether they would vote a straight Republican ticket, The Plain Dealer said.

Drastic Changes In Medicine Expected

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — No less an authority than Dr. Dwight Locke Wilbur, president of the American Medical Association, says the practice of medicine will change drastically over the next 10 to 15 years.

"It won't be what people want—or think they want. But it will be what they need, the best medical care possible under the circumstances of those times," Wilbur said in an exclusive interview dealing with current and future problems of medicine.

In the future, the family doctor will be almost as extinct as a dodo. When you're hurt or sick, you'll go to the nearest hospital for emergency treatment, administered by physicians especially trained in these procedures.

If necessary, you'll be referred to a specialist, working not in a private office but in a large center with other specialists, sharing facilities they singly could not provide.

You may not even see the doctor on your initial visits. Your case history will be taken by assistants—even, eventually, by computers. Trained aides may do some of the preliminary examination.

"Group practice is the growing trend," says Wilbur. "It saves the doctor's time—there aren't nearly enough of them to go around—and it saves the patient's money."

The kindly old gentleman with the bedside manner was wonderful in his day, Wilbur says, but society can no longer afford him. The modern doctor is more efficient, more scientific and less subject to error.

Unfortunately, he is often more impersonal. But people are already beginning to accept this, Wilbur says, as they are beginning to accept changes in all areas of personal service.

"It's part of a normal trend in society," he says. "In all forms of human service, there is less concern for the individual. We are no longer served as well as we used to be in stores and restaurants. The relationship between people and those who provide them with services is deteriorating, and there is no chance of its return."

As the current president of the AMA Wilbur directs the professional policy of 215,000 of the nation's 300,000 physicians. He was born and bred to be a physician. His father, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior under President Herbert Hoover, was president of the AMA in 1923. His brother Blake is a physician and so are two of his three sons.

Despite his high office, Wilbur now 65, is a practicing physician—he came to the interview from a round of hospital calls. And when he leaves his AMA post next June he'll happily resume his specialty as an internist. "I'll be glad to get back," he says. "I'd rather do that than anything."

Wilbur believes the revolution in medical treatment will come as an answer to today's problems.

"Far too many people are failing to receive the benefits of a physician," he says. "There are at least four barriers which must be lowered.

"One is ignorance of the benefits which we find in many slums and rural areas. Some simply do not know what modern medicine can do for them and they turn to self-medication or to quacks.

"Two closely linked barriers are financial and geographical. Even where the medical service is free, it may cost a sick person all of a working day to go to and from a distant medical center.

"Then there's the status barrier. Minority groups are not comfortable in the presence of doctors. They find it difficult to communicate with educated personnel. These barriers, but it can be done through education and government assistance and ingenuity."

How to avoid wall to wall embarrassment.

Alexander Smith's solution: Miniature Furniture

When you make a mistake with carpeting it's really a pretty permanent mistake.

After all, carpeting is not like a piece of furniture you can exile to the den if you decide you don't like it.

And let's face it there aren't very many of us who can afford to just casually throw it out and start over again.

That's why Alexander Smith has come up with miniature furniture.

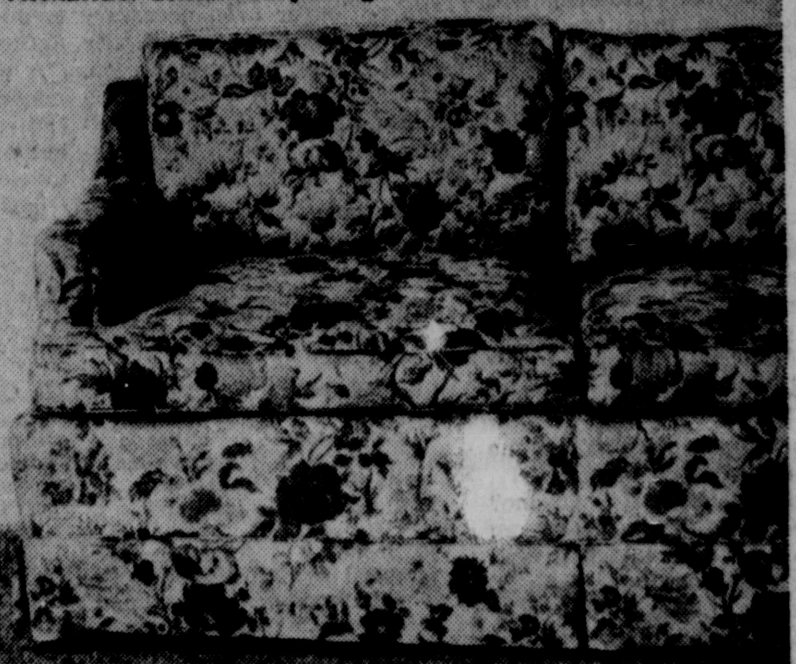

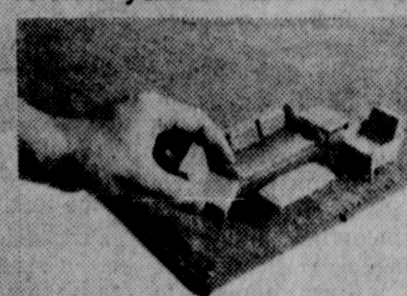

Miniature furniture is our way of showing you in the store what our carpets will look like in your home.

What we do is match the colors of your furniture at home from our supply of living room, dining room and bedroom miniatures. Then we show you swatches of our carpets with your furniture arranged on them. For instance, this is our Mademoiselle carpet made with a 100% Kodol pile.

We think miniature furniture saves us a lot of explaining. And at the same time it saves you a lot of embarrassment. Come in today and see how you can avoid wall to wall embarrassment.

Where Responsibility Lies

Political or social bitterness and frustration are not sufficient reasons for the disruption of the great institutions of this nation. Those who have adopted such tactics have proven themselves incapable of rational judgment.

Whether they realize their actions, if permitted to go unchecked, would lead to anarchy is beside the point. For those who are bent on the destruction of the fabric of a social order they find distasteful, discipline is needed. The age of permissiveness is past.

As more outbreaks occur almost weekly on the great campuses of the nation, it is apparent institutions of higher learning have become the battlegrounds of radicals who have nothing but contempt for the rights of others.

At Columbia, as at Berkeley, and lately on lesser campuses from one coast to the other, those who are interfering with the pursuit of learning by the majority are in the smallest minority. But they have frequently succeeded in total disruption of the college or university.

Whether they admit it or not, the responsibility for such chaos lies with college officials, who first and foremost among their duties have the responsibility for providing a coherent community in which scholars are free to pursue their goals.

There is no such freedom on campuses where radical minorities are permitted to run rampant. Administrators and educators who cannot see that give evidence of their own lack of academic qualification.

Only Losers

Mounting evidence indicates government fiscal experts made some wrong guesses about the reaction of consumers to the 10 percent surcharge on income taxes.

The surtax was supposed to cool off the buying boom by reducing spending — by the public, not the government. Instead retail sales volume has soared since last spring.

And the extraordinary rise in the use of consumer credit has become a matter of concern.

All this may, of course, inspire confidence. Some economists, however, are concerned about the dangerous implications in a paradox that combines a 10 percent surtax with abnormally high spending.

There is merit in the belief by this group of experts that the constant erosion of the dollar's value is causing a buying rush in anticipation of price increases — even if purchasers have to go into debt. This fear of inflation has been reflected in rising prices for common stocks.

When inflation comes, there are no lasting winners — only losers, especially those with fixed incomes, for whom there is no escape from the pernicious financial squeeze.

At The Bank

More and more the power of individual decision is being taken away. Now a bank in California will not even let the patron decide which line to get into for window service.

Instead, it has instituted a one-line system by which customers are served in the order they arrive at the bank.

This will never work. With no choice of lines, how is the customer to avoid the one with the shopkeeper and his brown money bags?

Astute linesmanship is part of the fun of going to a bank, and it doesn't seem sporting to take it away.

According To Boyle

By JOY STILLEY (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — When I'm complimented these days on my cooking, I merely shrug with becoming modesty and murmur, "Nothing to it—it was as easy as boiling water."

And that is exactly the secret of my success as a chef—I am among the world's experts at boiling water. The food industry has taken care of everything else. I supply the pan and they provide the packets, pouches and powders that put a four-course meal on the table in no more time than it takes to "simmer gently for 14 minutes."

From the breakfast dish of cereal to the prebedtime cup of hot chocolate, the whole day's menu can be concocted with nothing more than tap water and packages from the cabinet or the freezer.

The orange juice changes from pale powder to golden nectar with merely a swirl of a spoon in a glass; the oatmeal comes already sugared and cinnamon, with no more magic than a dash of boiling water needed to turn it into a tasty treat; and that morning cup of coffee materializes out of a few crystals immersed in more of the same.

From soup to nuts, it's in the bag—or box, or jar or can. Shrimp, marinar, anyone? Chipped beef in cream? Chicken with wine sauce? Spaghetti and meat balls? I can have them all by bending over a cold freezer instead of standing over a hot stove.

I can offer a variety of steaming rolls, and my fresh hot bread is just like mother used to bake—she got hers from the freezer too.

Everything is premixed, readymade, prepared in advance and set for serving. The fresh fruit salad is all cut up and piled into glass containers; the 14 different kinds of hors d'oeuvres need only thawing; potato salad comes in cans.

The waffles, pancakes and French toast come frozen, the solid-state garlic bread is already buttered and needs only heating; the cookies are preformed and become full-blown confections merely by being placed in the oven.

It's no longer even necessary to put a separate layer of jelly on that peanut butter sandwich. Now there's a jar of peanut butter that comes with the jelly already rippled through it in companionable layers.

When today's housewife puts a delicious dinner on the table, her family can well wonder,

"Does she or doesn't she cook?" Only her grocer knows for sure.

Ohio U Labor Talks To Resume

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Contract negotiations with a non-academic union will be resumed Monday at 10 a. m., according to Ward Wilson, director of personnel services at Ohio University.

Wilson said Oscar McGee, president of Local 1699, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees had agreed to resumption of talks. A work contract covering 800 nonacademic personnel expired Oct. 2 and the union has been authorized by its membership to call a strike.

The issue of contract labor has been the major stumbling block in negotiations.

"Beverly Birdwell! You haven't changed a bit in twenty years!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A RETIRED and distinguished professor of English history has gone into the hotel business in his old age. His attractive establishment, in the New England resort area where he was born, is directly astride a state line, and this means that each month he gets bills for electricity, and so forth, from two different utility corporations. When he adds them up he has conniption fits. "What's getting me down," he explains bitterly, "is the charge of the light brigade."

Charles Goodell, recently named junior senator from New York, distinguished himself previously for several years in the House of Representatives. He likes to credit his Great Dane, "Hansel," for playing a major role in his first campaign for a congressional seat. Hansel is just about as big a Great Dane as they come—and, brother, that's BIG. Little children, not to mention other dogs, ran to the storm cellars when Hansel loomed into view.

When Goodell thanked the folks in his neighborhood for electing him to his Washington post, many of them told him frankly, "We were determined to get rid of that damn dog!"

"My favorite new car," confides Col. Francis Duffy, "is the one just pulling out of a parking space I want. As for my own car, after my wife has parked it, her biggest problem is which of the three parking meters she should drop her quarter in."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Croup seems to run in my family. After a healthy, happy summer I look forward with dread to the winter colds and the attacks of croup that my six-year-old daughter seems to develop each year.

Is there any known cause for croup and can it be prevented?

Dear Mrs. L.: I am one of the physicians who is favored and privileged to have passed through, in medical practice, the terrible plague-like period of diphtheria, polio, scarlet fever and croup. I recall the tragic aftermath of these diseases, which now have been reduced to a bare minimum by the remarkable advances of modern medicine, including antibiotics and cortisone.

Croup is a term applied to a number of different conditions that are responsible for sudden episodes of difficulty in breathing, shortness of breath and severe cough. The basic cause is a swelling of the soft tissues that line the voice box and the trachea, the tube through which air passes from the mouth into the lungs. The cause of such swelling is usually an infection, mainly by the streptococcal germ. When this occurs in a small child whose larynx and trachea are very small, there is a reduction of air flow that results in the typical picture of the croupy child.

Severe allergic reactions, injury to the outside of the neck and, of course, foreign bodies interfere with normal breathing and produce the difficulty in breathing that so characterizes this condition.

It will be heartening for you to know that, as a child gets older and the width of the larynx and trachea become greater, the chances of developing croup are reduced even after severe infection.

I am certain that you have already noticed that these attacks of difficulty in breathing always seem to occur in the middle of the night when all illness becomes more terrifying. And certainly watching a child pulling to get some air into her lungs is really frightening.

Every physician who has treated croup recommends that the child be immediately placed in a bathroom filled with hot steam. There is probably no better immediate treatment than this until the doctor arrives. Another excellent way to surround a child with steam is to open an umbrella over a steam kettle and cover it with a blanket or sheet, making a tent. It is most important that the parent stay under the tent with the child so that fear and anxiety will not further distress the breathing pattern of the frightened child.

Assurance and reassurance are most important and holding the child in your arms gives a special extra support while in the tent.

Diseased tonsils and adenoids are frequently the underlying reason for infections that lead to croup in children who seem disposed to it. Physicians recommend the removal of these "expendables" if children have had repeated infections of the glands in the neck, or ear infections with or without hearing impairment.

Even after the removal of the tonsils and adenoids, attacks of croup can and do occur. Parents must not feel that the operation was unnecessary because of this. You will notice that the number of infections, their frequency and their severity are diminished after this operation. With it comes a decrease in the number of attacks of croup.

With antibiotics, cortisone and ACTH, the swelling of the larynx can now almost always be reduced quickly so that normal breathing returns while the infection is cured. Prevention, of course, is most difficult, because children pick up germs so readily from classmates, friends and even parents.

Do you know that the police and fire departments have remarkable emergency health teams if your own doctor is not available?

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The approach of Christmas is a grimly serious time in the toy industry. It is no time for ordinary games, except those that hopelessly will be sold to one of the world's most fickle consumer groups, the children.

One of the big sellers this year likely will be Billy Blasto, a small battery operated astronaut who comes with several accessories, including a laser gun and space car, for $4.98 to $7.98.

Executives of Eldon Industries, the manufacturer, confidently forecast that it will be "among the top half-dozen toys of the year." Electronic science and motivational psychology help produce this assurance.

Through such means, Eldon has convinced itself that the toy it offers satisfied the subconscious desires of the age 3 to 7 group, and that its advertising evokes a response strong enough for children to ask their parents for the toy. "We still have to make a lot of judgments but we have eliminated as many as possible," explained G. A. Clowes, vice president of the Eldon toy division. It was done this way.

Groups of children from about 4 to 9 years of age were invited to a studio and shown an hour-long series of filmed cartoons and commercials, one of which was the Billy Blasto advertisement, planned for pre-Christmas release.

In one hand the children held a device by which they recorded their likes and dislikes, their voluntary responses to what was viewed.

From the other hand the children were plugged into a measuring device. Electrodes and wires were taped to their fingers to measure perspiration and blood pressure. This revealed involuntary responses. It was a lie detector.

The children also were tested in another way. The studio was bugged so the children's conversations could be overheard. And they were spied upon through closed circuit television as they discussed the toy.

In addition, they filled out test sheets both before and after the showing of the commercial.

"Is all this necessary?" Clowes was asked. Not always, he said, but in the case of a big toy like Billy Blasto it was important to check on the children's thinking.

"It's very important to get insights into what the children think," he said. They are fickle. "One will say 'I like that toy.' A child nearby will say, 'That's a sissy toy.' The first one then might say, 'I don't like it anymore.'"

Children, he said, "are as influenced by environment and prestige—keeping up with the Joneses—as anybody, maybe more so. As a toy is built up in prestige it sells better."

Nixon's Pitch To Youth

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — There didn't seem to be many draft-age kids at Dick Nixon's early-afternoon rally in this Pennsylvania steel town, and most of those present were probably too young to be voting this November anyway. But this didn't stop Nixon from making his pitch to the youth. It is obviously part of the confident candidate's long-term strategy to be preparing the ground for the next four years, when the boys and girls will be growing up.

But there could have been an insurance angle to it, too. As Nixon spoke to five thousand restrained but respectful Pennsylvanians, the rumors were flying that a pause in the Vietnam War was in the works. He didn't mention the subject of compulsory military service as he praised the youth in his audience, but his radio address on the virtues of "the all-volunteer armed force" had been distributed to the reporters with his air-borne caravan.

There was little enough in the speech about a voluntary army to satisfy a college senior immediately — the sentence about "preparing for the day when the draft can be phased out of American life" won't send our draft boards into retirement until a real peace in Asia is nailed down. But if Hubert Humphrey, with an assist from Lyndon Johnson, can really go before the country on November 5 as the miracle peace man, Nixon's promise to the young to get rid of the hated draft could be advertised as the "next step." Nixon has been the only candidate to make anything of the voluntary army issue.

How good a case is it? And would it be convincing to a draft-age boy? Professor Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago, has proved to Nixon's satisfaction that the long-term cost of a voluntary army would not be greatly out of line with the figures for maintaining a conscripted force. The pay increases needed to entice people out of the civilian labor market into the army and navy would probably come to "five to seven billions more a year." But, while this is a disquieting figure in itself, it would, so Nixon says, "Be increasingly offset by reductions in the many costs which the heavy rate of turnover now causes." It is reckoned that more than ninety per cent of the army's draftees now quit the service the moment their time is up. This means that after two years of soldiering a boy goes back into civilian life carrying with him the skills that it costs Uncle Sam $6,000 per person to develop. The net additional annual cost of shifting to a voluntary army, says Nixon, would be bound to be much less than $6,000 per soldier. As an Army Chief of Personnel has assured Nixon, "As soon as we are able to operate as a unit, the trained men leave and we have to start all over again." A voluntary force, consisting of skilled and highly motivated men, would have a small turnover. And fewer good trained men would be tied down training new recruits.

It has been argued that a voluntary army would be a predominantly black army. But Nixon thinks this fear is "sheer fantasy." Most of the present volunteers are white. As for worrying about an "army of mercenaries," so what? The poet A. E. Housman once remarked on the ability of mercenaries "to save the sum of things for pay." Anyway, as Nixon says, "We're talking about the same kind of citizen armed force America has had ever since it began, excepting only the period when we have relied on the draft." Were Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders, or General Leonard Wood's Plattsburg officer volunteers of the World War I period, "mercenaries" in their motivations? A third argument, that a voluntary army would entail a threat of increased "military influence" in our society, is dismissed by Nixon. If such influence ever did come, says Nixon, "It would come from the top officer ranks — a career officer corps." We already have that.

Assuming a quick return to peace, the Nixon promise of a voluntary peace time army would at once give him great trading capital with the young. The incendiary rhetoric of the Yippies and the Students for a Demonic Society would lose nine-tenths of its kick.

Where Responsibility Lies

Political or social bitterness and frustration are not sufficient reasons for the disruption of the great institutions of this nation. Those who have adopted such tactics have proven themselves incapable of rational judgment.

Whether they realize their actions, if permitted to go unchecked, would lead to anarchy is beside the point. For those who are bent on the destruction of the fabric of a social order they find distasteful, discipline is needed. The age of permissiveness is past.

As more outbreaks occur almost weekly on the great campuses of the nation, it is apparent institutions of higher learning have become the battlegrounds of radicals who have nothing but contempt for the rights of others.

At Columbia, as at Berkeley, and lately on lesser campuses from one coast to the other, those who are interfering with the pursuit of learning by the majority are in the smallest minority. But they have frequently succeeded in total disruption of the college or university.

Whether they admit it or not, the responsibility for such chaos lies with college officials, who first and foremost among their duties have the responsibility for providing a coherent community in which scholars are free to pursue their goals.

There is no such freedom on campuses where radical minorities are permitted to run rampant. Administrators and educators who cannot see that give evidence of their own lack of academic qualification.

Only Losers

Mounting evidence indicates government fiscal experts made some wrong guesses about the reaction of consumers to the 10 percent surcharge on income taxes.

The surtax was supposed to cool off the buying boom by reducing spending — by the public, not the government. Instead retail sales volume has soared since last spring.

And the extraordinary rise in the use of consumer credit has become a matter of concern.

All this may, of course, inspire confidence. Some economists, however, are concerned about the dangerous implications in a paradox that combines a 10 percent surtax with abnormally high spending.

There is merit in the belief by this group of experts that the constant erosion of the dollar's value is causing a buying rush in anticipation of price increases — even if purchasers have to go into debt. This fear of inflation has been reflected in rising prices for common stocks.

When inflation comes, there are no lasting winners — only losers, especially those with fixed incomes, for whom there is no escape from the pernicious financial squeeze.

At The Bank

More and more the power of individual decision is being taken away. Now a bank in California will not even let the patron decide which line to get into for window service.

Instead, it has instituted a one-line system by which customers are served in the order they arrive at the bank.

This will never work. With no choice of lines, how is the customer to avoid the one with the shopkeeper and his brown money bags?

Astute linesmanship is part of the fun of going to a bank, and it doesn't seem sporting to take it away.

According To Boyle

By JOY STILLEV (For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP) — When I'm complimented these days on my cooking, I merely shrug with becoming modesty and murmur, "Nothing to it—it was as easy as boiling water."

And that is exactly the secret of my success as a chef—I am among the world's experts at boiling water. The food industry has taken care of everything else. I supply the pan and they provide the packets, pouches and powders that put a four-course meal on the table in no more time than it takes to "simmer gently for 14 minutes."

From the breakfast dish of cereal to the bedtime cup of hot chocolate, the whole day's menu can be concocted with nothing more than tap water and packages from the cabinet or the freezer.

The orange juice changes from pale powder to golden nectar with merely a swirl of a spoon in a glass; the oatmeal comes already sugared and cinnamon, with no more magic than a dash of boiling water needed to turn it into a tasty treat; and that morning cup of coffee materializes out of a few crystals immersed in more of the same.

From soup to nuts, it's in the bag—or box, or jar or can. Shrimp marinara, anyone? Chipped beef in cream? Chicken with wine sauce? Spaghetti and meat balls? I have them all by bending over a cold freezer instead of standing over a hot stove.

I can offer a variety of steaming rolls, and my fresh hot bread is just like mother used to bake—she got hers from the freezer too.

Everything is premixed, ready-made, prepared in advance and set for serving. The fresh fruit salad is all cut up and piled into glass containers; the 14 different kinds of hors d'oeuvres need only thawing; potato salad comes in cans.

The waffles, pancakes and French toast come frozen, the solid-state garlic bread is already buttered and needs only heating; the cookies are pre-formed and become full-blown confections merely by being placed in the oven.

It's no longer even necessary to put a separate layer of jelly on that peanut butter sandwich. Now there's a jar of peanut butter that comes with the jelly already rippled through it in companionable layers.

When today's housewife puts a delicious dinner on the table, her family can well wonder,

"Does she or doesn't she cook?" Only her grocer knows for sure.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A RETIRED and distinguished professor of English history has gone into the hotel business in his old age. His attractive establishment, in the New England resort area where he was born, is directly astride a state line, and this means that each month he gets bills for electricity, and so forth, from two different utility corporations. When he adds them up he has conniption fits. "What's getting me down," he explains bitterly, "is the charge of the light brigade."

Charles Goodell, recently named junior senator from New York, distinguished himself previously for several years in the House of Representatives. He likes to credit his Great Dane, "Hanzel," for playing a major role in his first campaign for a congressional seat. Hanzel is just about as big a Great Dane as they come—and, brother, that's BIG. Little children, not to mention other dogs, ran for the storm cellars when Hanzel loomed into view.

When Goodell thanked the folks in his neighborhood for electing him to his Washington post, many of them told him frankly "We were determined to get rid of that damn dog!"

"My favorite new car," confides Col. Francis Duffy, "is the one just pulling out of a parking space I want. As for my own car, after my wife has parked it, her biggest problem is which of the three parking meters she should drop her quarter in."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Croup seems to run in my family. After a healthy, happy summer I look forward with dread to the winter colds and the attacks of croup that my six-year-old daughter seems to develop each year.

Is there any known cause for croup and can it be prevented?

Mrs. B. L., Illinois: Dear Mrs. L.: I am one of the physicians who is favored and privileged to have passed through, in medical practice, the terrible plaque-like period of diphtheria, polio, scarlet fever and croup. I recall the tragic aftermath of these diseases, which now have been reduced to a bare minimum by the remarkable advances of modern medicine, including antibiotics and cortisone.

Croup is a term applied to a number of different conditions that are responsible for sudden episodes of difficulty in breathing, shortness of breath and severe cough. The basic cause is a swelling of the soft tissues that line the voice box and the trachea, the tube through which air passes from the mouth into the lungs.

The cause of such swelling is usually an infection, mainly by the streptococcal germ. When this occurs in a small child whose larynx and trachea are very small, there is a reduction of air flow that results in the typical picture of the croupy child.

Severe allergic reactions, injury to the outside of the neck and, of course, foreign bodies interfere with normal breathing and produce the difficulty in breathing that so characterizes this condition.

It will be heartening for you to know that, as a child gets older and the width of the larynx and trachea become greater, the chances of developing croup are reduced even after severe infection.

I am certain that you have already noticed that these attacks of difficulty in breathing always seem to occur in the middle of the night when all illness becomes more terrifying. And certainly watching a child pulling to get some air into her lungs is really frightening.

Every physician who has treated croup recommends that the child be immediately placed in a bathroom filled with hot steam. There is probably no better immediate treatment than this until the doctor arrives. Another excellent way to surround a child with steam is to open an umbrella over a steam kettle and cover it with a blanket or sheet, making a tent. It is most important that the parent stay under the tent with the child so that fear and anxiety will not further distress the breathing pattern of the frightened child.

Assurance and reassurance are most important and holding the child in your arms gives a special extra support while in the tent.

Diseased tonsils and adenoids are frequently the underlying reason for infections that lead to croup in children who seem disposed to it. Physicians recommend the removal of these "expendables" if children have had repeated infections of the glands in the neck, or ear infections with or without hearing impairment.

Even after the removal of the tonsils and adenoids, attacks of croup can and do occur. Parents must not feel that the operation was unnecessary because of this. You will notice that the number of infections, their frequency and their severity are diminished after this operation. With it comes a decrease in the number of attacks of croup.

With antibiotics, cortisone and ACTH, the swelling of the larynx can now almost always be reduced quickly so that normal breathing returns while the infection is cured. Prevention, of course, is most difficult, because children pick up germs so readily from classmates, friends and even parents.

Do you know that the police and fire departments have remarkable emergency health teams if your own doctor is not available?

"It's very important to get insights into what the children think," he said. They are fickle. "One will say 'I like that toy.' A child nearby will say, 'That's a sissy toy.' The first one then might say, 'I don't like it anymore.'"

Children, he said, "are as influenced by environment and prestige—keeping up with the Joneses—as anybody, maybe more so. As a toy is built up in prestige it sells better."

The pay increases needed to entice people out of the civilian labor market into the army and navy would probably come to "five to seven billions more a year."

It is reckoned that more than ninety per cent of the army's draftees now quit the service the moment their time is up. Were Teddy Roosevelt's Rough Riders, or General Leonard Wood's Plattburg officer volunteers of the World War I period, "mercenaries" in their motivations? A third argument, that a voluntary army would entail a threat of increased "military influence" in our society, is dismissed by Nixon. If such influence ever did come, says Nixon, "It would come from the top officer ranks — a career officer corps." We already have that.

Assuming a quick return to peace, the Nixon promise of a voluntary peace time army would at once give him great trading capital with the young. The incendiary rhetoric of the Yippies and the Students for a Democratic Society would lose nine-tenths of its kick.

Nixon, HHH Give Nearly Similar Views On News Flow

NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon both say that if elected president they will follow a policy of making the fullest feasible disclosure of government information to the American public.

Humphrey, conceding "a communication gap does indeed exist between government and the citizens it serves," declares he would take this attitude: "Either there is valid reason for withholding—and the government has the burden of proving this—or the information will be made available."

Nixon says, "I believe a president must, wherever he possibly can, make the decision for more knowledge rather than less. I do not believe in a 'right to lie.'"

Humphrey and Nixon set forth their views in letters replying to questions by Sam Ragan of the Raleigh, N.C., News & Observer and Raleigh Times, and chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and to Hu Blom of the Wenatchee, Wash., Daily World, chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Both editors had asked the national candidates how they would implement the 1967 Federal Freedom of Information Act dealing with the availability of government information.

Humphrey said in his letter to Blom he had been "deeply troubled" by reports of the treatment of newsmen at the August Democratic convention in Chicago and asserted, "Such restrictions, harassment or violence which the press encountered cannot be tolerated or condoned too strongly."

"If I am permitted to serve as president," Humphrey added, "I will do everything required to enable the press—and the public—to obtain the full details of what their government is doing."

"First on my agenda will be to implement Section 16 of Executive Order 10501, which requires the president to designate a member of his staff who shall receive, consider, and take action upon, suggestions, complaints from nongovernmental sources relating to the operation of this order."

"The executive order is the basic document governing the classification of official government information. To date, this section has been complied with only half-heartedly."

"I firmly believe that an open presidency requires a grievance mechanism at the highest levels, so that the press and the public can vent their frustrations and obtain the information they require."

The new law exempts from disclosure matters which the government believes should be kept secret "in the interest of the national defense or foreign policy."

Reagan asked each candidate if, as president, he would limit the claim of "executive privilege" to the president or extend it to other executive branch officials.

Humphrey said he could not commit himself in advance but added: "Obviously, such a privilege should not be used by an administration to get itself out of a tight political spot. It should not be used to safeguard the president or the administration from criticism for a possible mistake."

"This privilege can be used only sparingly and in cases where sensitive situations are involved," Humphrey said.

Nixon said, "Executive privilege must be very narrowly construed. It should be asserted only in rare circumstances and then only by the president or by a responsible top echelon subordinate acting under guidelines clearly set out by the president. I believe the executive branch must at all times extend itself in making information available to Congress. I would expect to provide its members and committees with full information concerning administration decisions and the reasons underlying such decisions—recognizing, of course, the necessary distinction between executive decisions and the decision-making process which precedes them."

Nixon said in his statement to Blom that among government agencies in the past "all too often the term 'public interest' was used as an excuse for covering up irregularities or mistakes."

"No matter how well drafted," Nixon said, "legislation to protect the public's right to know cannot be self-executing. The president must provide the leadership. The president must make the final decision on matters of national defense and foreign policy."

"This is a decision each president must make, having in mind his primary responsibility to defend the security of the United States and his responsibility to lead the people of the United States. To be an effective leader, the president must have the people's confidence."

Nixon said that if he were elected "a new attorney general backed by the president will provide the leadership and enforce strict guidelines so that all agencies comply to the fullest extent possible with both the letter and spirit of the law."

"I have great confidence in what the American people are able to assimilate," said Nixon, "and I think if you tell the American people the hard truth, they will make the hard decisions."

Mrs. Tammany Addresses Monday Club Meeting

Mrs. Fred Tammany used as her subject "Children's Poetry" when she spoke at the Oct. 21 meeting of Monday Club in the Trinity Lutheran Church.

Following a brief business session, Mrs. Tammany stated that whenever one is called upon for a lullaby or a Mother Goose rhyme, you reach back in memories of your childhood and recall the songs and verses taught you.

She continued by saying that it is probable that early poetry originated in the highly rhythmic and formalized story telling of early tribal society.

Generally, the writing of poetry has always been regarded as a game to be played with words, an entertainment, pastime, and mode of personal emotional release.

"Heaven" said Wordsworth, "lies about us in our infancy." Children's poems recapture an early freshness of innocent joy.

Robert Louis Stevenson was a sickly child and had to spend much of his time indoors, often alone. He entertained himself by making up stories. Later his world of make-believe grew into such famous books as "Treasure Island" as well as "A Child's Garden of Verses."

Poems written about animals and little creatures are innumerable. Out of the fun and frolic of childhood have come countless jingles. There are many reasons for rhyme.

Rhyme sounds out the rhythm with a pleasant sound, it punctuates the lines with music. One sound furnishes the key to another and it is this magic of rhyme that makes poetry easier to remember than prose.

Since earliest times much wisdom was stored in little rhyming syllables which people learned to say when they wanted to recall how many days were in each month, the weather signs, bits of folklore or merely counting out rhymes. Even the most serious poets enjoyed moments of comic relief. Shakespeare had his clowns, John Milton, relished the spirit of mirth and wrote happily about mirth's joyous companions. Poetry speaks for us in expressing many emotions.

However, showers are likely to persist in the north-eastern portions of the state into Friday with the possibility of a few snow flurries occurring late tonight or Friday.

Temperatures will be in the 50s today, dropping generally into the 30s tonight and probably not rising out of the 40s over most of the state Friday.

FORECASTS

Found Innocent

Of Student Assault

WOOSTER, Ohio (AP) — Wooster Municipal Judge William G. Sharp ruled Wednesday that the principal and three staff members of Northwestern High School were innocent of charges of assaulting six students at the school.

Judge Sharp said there was not enough evidence to support the claims of assault and battery against David Knight, principal; Dale Wachtel, football coach; William Miller guidance counselor, and Lloyd Bates, athletic director.

The charges were filed by parents of the students, who claimed the four men had beaten the students during an incident following a football game earlier this month.

Barrow Poets Inhabit English Pubs

By GLANN GOODEY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Go into a pub and hear a poet.

Go into a pub and hear the music of the Cacofiddle and the Musc-In, grotesque homemade contraptions that might have been designed for an angel by Hieronymus Bosch.

Go into a pub and hear a new, zany approach to a poetry session.

The Barrow Poets, a roving group of young poetry lovers, as offbeat as the Beatles were when they first started life in a Liverpool cellar, are Britain's increasingly popular fun entertainers.

More than 200 turned up a few nights ago to hear the Barrows in a London pub that could hold only 60. The 200 squeezed in and dozens fainted.

The Barrow music ranges from airs by Mozart and Bach to souped-up folk tunes; their poetry from serious readings to quick limericks.

They are a group of three men and three women, all ex-students aged between 25 to 35, who want to be accepted as pure entertainers and not for their curiosity value as odd-balls.

They are poetry lovers dedicated to take the sting out of the readed words "poetry recital."

The Barrows believe that poetry should be fun. It can also be sad, simple or sophisticated, but above all it should be enjoyed. They started by trying to sell poetry from a barrow in the City of London. Police chased them into the pubs because they didn't have a license for street trading.

Sue Baker, an attractive 28-year-old blonde housewife who plays the violin, mandolin and guitar in the group, said: "The original idea was to entertain ourselves. Now, it's to entertain other people. We're more successful than most in this line — we like poetry but we're not trying to reach."

Sue, who looks after her two young children between the pub sessions, also handles the group's bookings.

"Our own jobs as artists, teachers and musicians have been abandoned and now the group is a full-time job," she said. "We don't make much money from our concerts and pub tours, but it's a fascinating life."

The Barrows will recite poetry and sing to anyone who will listen, including schools, colleges, universities and theaters. They have even been to a rehabilitation center for the mentally ill.

"We have a program for every occasion," said Sue.

William Beahy-Wright, a bespectacled, studious looking man, reads the poetry and plays the Cacofiddle, a collection of double bass, drum, cymbal, clappers and kazoo.

Another of his instruments is the Musc-In, so called because real musicians complain that it muscles in, and they'd rather it didn't.

"We appeal to people because we don't insult anybody's intelligence," he said. "We don't try to pretend this is grand culture. The music and poetry is just to be listened to and enjoyed."

The other members of the group are Jim Parker, who plays the oboe, English horn and concertina; Heather Black; Cicely Smith, and Gerard Benson, the group's poet.

Cincinnati Bank Branch Held Up For 4th Time

CINCINNATI (AP) — The $7,800 robbery at the Mohawk branch of the Fifth Third Union Trust Co. Wednesday marked the fourth time in 16 months the branch bank has been hit by holdups.

In all, more than $17,000 in cash has been taken. The rash of robberies began in June 1967.

Police said Wednesday's robbery was the work of two Negroes, in their 20s. One of the two forced a bank executive, at gunpoint, to empty a cash drawer while the second man acted as lookout inside the bank. Both fled in a car which police believed to be driven by a third man.

Officers were questioning one suspect late Wednesday.

LAX ON TAX? — The Rev. Robert Nikilborc, 37, Roman Catholic head of Boys' Town of the Desert at Banning, Calif., strolls outside federal court in Los Angeles, where he faces charges of failing to file tax returns on $119,960 income from 1963 to 1965. He lives in a $75,000 house in Palm Springs part of the time, and was known by neighbors as Robert Drew Rand, electronics executive.

Swank New Veep In Farm Bureau

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — C. William Swank of Westerville has been named executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, effective Dec. 1 upon the retirement of D. R. Stanfield.

Swank has been with the Farm Bureau since 1956 and currently is assistant executive vice president and vice president of operations. He also is general manager of the Ohio Agricultural Marketing Association.

Stanfield has been executive vice president of the 52,195-family organization since August 1955.

Worker Voting Laws Vary Widely

CHICAGO (AP) — Laws in 30 states allow workers time off the job to vote in the Nov. 5 general election, a survey showed Wednesday.

Seventeen states require that the worker notify his employer of his election day plans and three states—Kansas, Iowa and West Virginia—require that the application be in writing.

In 19 states employers are barred from making deductions the time he is authorized to be absent from work to cast his vote.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private reporting agency on tax and business law.

In Wisconsin, Kentucky, Alabama and Illinois the law requires that time off be granted but pay for the time off is not required.

In seven states—Indiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, Georgia, Oklahoma, Massachusetts and Ohio—the statutes are silent regarding payment for voting time. But, in Ohio, Arkansas and New Mexico the attorneys general have construed the law to require pay—in New Mexico limited to two hours for hourly paid workers and in Ohio, limited to salaried employees.

Commerce Clearing House said the survey showed that laws in a number of states contained provisions that time off must be allowed during working hours only if the polls are not open for a sufficient length of time during nonworking hours.

The laws of South Dakota and Hawaii, for instance, specify that if the polls are open for two consecutive hours during non-working time, the employee has opportunity to vote without time off for the job. Tennessee and Missouri extend that time to three hours.

Minnesota law specifies that workers may take the forenoon off for voting. Ohio has no definite period but bars the discharge of an employee who takes a reasonable amount of time off to vote.

Arkansas law calls for total suspension of work or change of shift by 4 p.m. on election day.

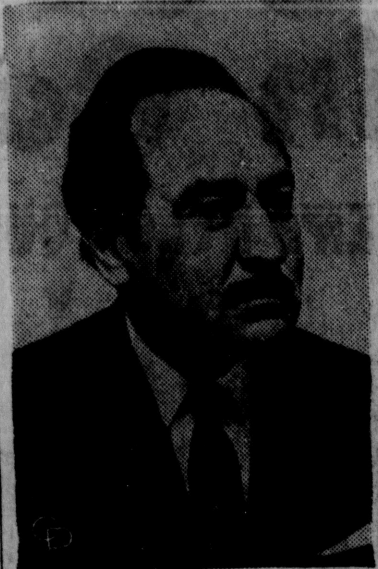

Penalties for violation of time-off-to-vote laws include fines ranging from $1 to $1,000 in 25 of the 30 states with these laws on their books, as well as jail sentences running from 30 days up to five years in 14 of the 30 states.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren Readers Reply To 'Modern Mother'

DEAR ABBY: When I read about "MODERN MOTHER" wanting to give her 16-year-old daughter the pill for her own (the mother's) peace of mind, I nearly had a fit.

In the first place, if a mother raises her daughter right, she won't need the pill.

This may come as a shock to you, but I am a 19-year-old virgin. I'm no creep either. I've had my share of wild parties, oversexed guys, and I have been turned on myself a few times, but I know how far I can go.

The guy will try to get as much as he can. When he gets out of line with me, I stop him and tell him my morals won't allow me to go any further. He gets mad and pouts, but I just put right back. I've lost a lot of guys that way, but I don't care. One day the right man will come along and I'll be glad I waited.

I would be insulted if my Mom gave me the pill. That's like saying she doesn't care if I went all the way.

19-YEAR-OLD VIRGIN
DEAR ABBY: In your answer to MODERN MOTHER, morals seemed to be the only issue. In all this pill talk, people tend to overlook a far more serious danger than a possible pregnancy.

I refer to the risk of venereal disease, which is now even more violent and rampant than ever.

It ought to be stressed that venereal disease can be far worse than a 9-month episode.

DEAR ABBY: This is for MODERN MOTHER: My mother raised three GOOD daughters and it wasn't by giving us the pill either. I will never forget my mother's words to us, and when I have children they will hear them, too: "The right way is always the hard way. Anyone can do things the easy way."

Modern mothers want to do everything the easy way. I am 22 years old and newly married. I am far from old-fashioned. I met my "right man" and we went together 4 years and I managed to stay "good" all thru courtship and college education. It was worth it, too, so I'd like to ask you, Modern Mother, why are you giving up on your daughter so early?

If you love your daughter, help her to be strong and overcome temptations. Your easy solution is asking for the trouble you are trying to avoid.

A.S.
DEAR ABBY: The mother who wanted to give her 16-year-old daughter the pill wrote that altho her daughter was a beautiful, intelligent girl with high morals, when the "right" boy comes along, if the time is right and the place is right, Lord only knows what could happen, or words to that effect.

I would like to say that if a mother raises her daughter with high moral standards, when the right boy comes along, the right place will be the bridal chamber and the right time will be the wedding night. Don't faint, this is from a 21-year-old college man.

"MR. RIGHT"
DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of four healthy, normal daughters whose ages range from 13 to 22, and I would NEVER offer my daughters birth control pills because it would be the same as saying "Go ahead." But if there were some kind of tasteless powder that accomplished the same thing, I would be the first to buy it and slip into their breakfast food every morning.

ELECTIONS TO WATCH

Gov. Warren P. Knowles

Bronson C. LaFollette

IN WISCONSIN, Bronson C. LaFollette, state attorney general with probably the longest political pedigree of any candidate in the country, is trying to unseat Gov. Warren P. Knowles, but not given much chance because the Democrats are in deep, deep trouble. LaFollette, 32, is the grandson of Robert (Fighting Bob) LaFollette, who was governor, senator, and Progressive Party presidential candidate. One of his sons was a senator for 21 years. Another was a three-term governor. Now young Bronson seeks to become the youngest governor in Wisconsin history.

Pensioner, 81 Years Old, Becomes British Baronet

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Robert Hardinge, an 81-year-old pensioner who lives in one room in a Denver hotel, isn't much impressed by his elevation to the British nobility.

"I don't care about the title. I want to live a little longer," said Hardinge, when informed the death of his uncle in London made him the sixth Baronet of Lurran.

"It doesn't do me any good," said Hardinge, "I don't think there's any money involved."

Not Guilty Pleas Entered In Slaying

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men accused of slaying a 13-year-old Ohio girl by throwing her out of a fifth-floor window pleaded innocent Wednesday to rape and murder charges.

Ronald Alfio, 26, a commercial artist, and David Thomas Jr., 30, a porter, entered the pleas in State Supreme Court. No trial date was set.

The girl, Deborah Neil, was found dead July 15 at the bottom of an air shaft in a Lower East Side tenement building. Police said she had been raped and buried alive from a fifth-floor window.

The body lay unidentified for two weeks in a city morgue until her father, Charles B. Neil, a crane operator in Vickery, Ohio, identified the girl as his daughter.

Neil said his daughter, who had left home wearing hippie beads, had phoned her parents the day before the body was found to say she was abandoning her plans for a hippie life in New York and was returning home.

High School Boys Vote—For Girls

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — It took four years of debate at an all-boys high school to decide in favor of—girls?

"It was such a critical issue we felt it should be up to the students," said Joe Halko, student council president at Padua Franciscan High School in suburban Parma.

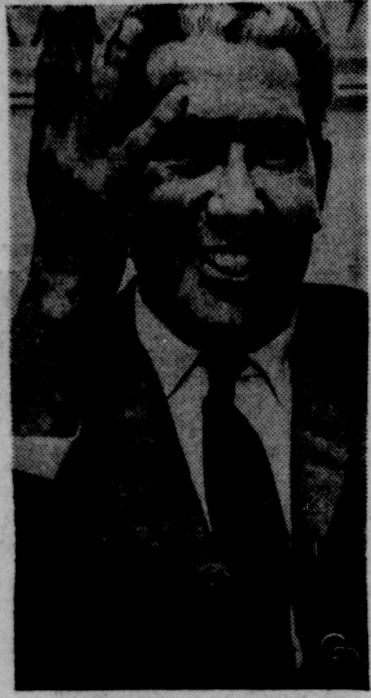

Halko added: "I was against it."

He was talking about a vote Wednesday for or against having girl cheerleaders at Padua athletic events. Other all-boy, Catholic high schools have done it.

"Spirit should be regulated from within the school itself," Halko said. "The other side felt that girls would make cheering at games louder. I felt that organization was the answer."

He concluded: "Girls are no answer."

The final vote: 760 for, 432 against and 35 abstentions. It isn't that the 35 didn't want to vote. They just weren't in school.

IN WASHINGTON to appeal to the OAS, Arnulfo Arias, deposed president of Panama, looks anything but downcast.

Granddaughter Of George M. Cohan Back From War

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Half a century ago, George M. Cohan encouraged performers to entertain American servicemen "Over There."

Today, in a different war, in a different place, his granddaughter Michaela has been doing just that.

Miss Cohan, who was 25 Wednesday, returned earlier this month from 13 months in Vietnam where she was an Army service club director.

Unlike her famous grandfather, the attractive, brown-haired girl did not sing or dance.

"I don't have the talent," she said.

Instead, Miss Cohan explained, her job was "sort of like being a stage manager," arranging for USO shows and making sure the service clubs ran smoothly.

Miss Cohan said she preferred not to discuss the political aspects of the war. In answer to a question, however, she said, "I don't think patriotic sentiments are old fashioned."

Her grandfather's patriotic efforts—with songs like "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "It's a Grand Old Flag"—won recognition from President Franklin D. Roosevelt who presented the composer with the Congressional medal for his "outstanding contributions to the American spirit."

Miss Cohan said she never knew her grandfather. "He died the year before I was born," she said, but added, "I've heard his songs since the time I was born. I love his music."

Arrange Fights From Czechoslovakia

VIENNA (AP) — Refugee relief groups are working to arrange weekly flights of 160 to 170 Czechoslovakians to the United States. The first group of 169 leaves Friday.

"The number of weekly flights from Vienna to New York will depend on how many seek residence in America," said Heidemarie Schreiner of the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration ICEM.

Internal Bleeding Puts Dr. Barnard In Own Hospital

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Christian Barnard was reported in satisfactory condition today after being hospitalized with internal bleeding.

Barnard was admitted Wednesday to Groote Schuur Hospital, scene of his trail-blazing heart surgery, with a "mild gastro-duodenal hemorrhage," the hospital said.

A bulletin today said he had a good night's rest and there was no evidence of further bleeding.

Barnard has arthritis in his hands, and a medical source said such analgesics as aspirin taken to kill the pain from the arthritis can cause gastro-duodenal bleeding.

ELECTIONS TO WATCH

Gov. Warren P. Knowles Bronson C. LaFollette

IN WISCONSIN, Bronson C. LaFollette, state attorney general with probably the longest political pedigree of any candidate in the country, is trying to unseat Gov. Warren P. Knowles, but not given much chance because the Democrats are in deep, deep trouble. LaFollette, 32, is the grandson of Robert (Fighting Bob) LaFollette, who was governor, senator, and Progressive Party presidential candidate. One of his sons was a senator for 21 years. Another was a three-term governor. Now young Bronson seeks to become the youngest governor in Wisconsin history.

Pensioner, 81 Years Old, Becomes British Baronet

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Robert Hardinge, an 81-year-old pensioner who lives in one room in a Denver hotel, is not much impressed by his elevation to the British nobility.

"I don't care about the title. I want to live a little longer," said Hardinge, when informed the death of his uncle in London made him the sixth Baronet of Lurran.

"It doesn't do me any good," said Hardinge, "I don't think there's any money involved."

Not Guilty Pleas Entered In Slaying

NEW YORK (AP)—Two men accused of slaying a 13-year-old Ohio girl by throwing her out of a fifth-floor window pleaded innocent Wednesday to rape and murder charges.

Ronald Alfio, 26, a commercial artist, and David Thomas Jr., 30, a porter, entered the pleas in State Supreme Court. No trial date was set.

The girl, Deborah Neil, was found dead July 15 at the bottom of an air shaft in a Lower East Side tenement building. Police said she had been raped and buried alive from a fifth-floor window.

The body lay unidentified for two weeks in a city morgue until her father, Charles B. Neil, a crane operator in Vickery, Ohio, identified the girl as his daughter.

Neil said his daughter, who had left home wearing hippie beads, had phoned her parents the day before the body was found to say she was abandoning her plans for a hippie life in New York and was returning home.

High School Boys Vote—For Girls

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—It took four years of debate at an all-boys high school to decide in favor of—girls?

"It was such a critical issue we felt it should be up to the students," said Joe Halko, student council president at Padua Franciscan High School in suburban Parma.

Halko added: "I was against it."

He was talking about a vote Wednesday for or against having girl cheerleaders at Padua athletic events. Other all-boy, Catholic high schools have done it.

"Spirit should be regulated from within the school itself," Halko said. "The other side felt that girls would make cheering at games louder. I felt that organization was the answer."

He concluded: "Girls are no answer."

The final vote: 760 for, 432 against and 35 abstentions. It isn't that the 35 didn't want to vote. They just weren't in school.

Granddaughter Of George M. Cohan Back From War

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Half a century ago, George M. Cohan encouraged performers to entertain American servicemen "Over There."

Today, in a different war, in a different place, his granddaughter Michaela has been doing just that.

Miss Cohan, who was 25 Wednesday, returned earlier this month from 13 months in Vietnam where she was an Army service club director.

Unlike her famous grandfather, the attractive, brown-haired girl did not sing or dance.

"I don't have the talent," she said.

Instead, Miss Cohan explained, her job was "sort of like being a stage manager," arranging for USO shows and making sure the service clubs ran smoothly.

Miss Cohan said she preferred not to discuss the political aspects of the war. In answer to a question, however, she said, "I don't think patriotic sentiments are old fashioned."

Her grandfather's patriotic efforts—with songs like "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "It's a Grand Old Flag"—won recognition from President Franklin D. Roosevelt who presented the composer with the Congressional medal for his "outstanding contributions to the American spirit."

Miss Cohan said she never knew her grandfather. "He died the year before I was born," she said, but added, "I've heard his songs since the time I was born. I love his music."

Internal Bleeding Puts Dr. Barnard In Own Hospital

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Heart transplant pioneer Christiaan Barnard was reported in satisfactory condition today after being hospitalized with internal bleeding.

Barnard was admitted Wednesday to Groote Schuur Hospital, scene of his trail-blazing heart surgery, with a "mild gastro-duodenal hemorrhage," the hospital said.

A bulletin today said he had a good night's rest and there was no evidence of further bleeding. Barnard has arthritis in his hands, and a medical source said such analgesics as aspirin taken to kill the pain from the arthritis can cause gastro-duodenal bleeding.

Jets, TV Have Big Impact In Political Campaigns

By JOY STILLEY
Associated Press Writer

From torch lights to television lights, from whistle stops to jet stops, there have been vast changes in the style of presidential campaigning since the first contested election in 1796.

Though the coming of radio launched a major revolution in the art of political persuasion, the advent of television brought about the swiftest and most radical innovations of all time.

With the beginning of television campaigning came the end of choosing a President primarily on an intellectual basis. Once the candidate entered the voter's living room via the TV screen, consciously or subconsciously emotions entered into the voter's choice.

A striking example of the impact of personality over policy, of image over issue, came in the series of four television debates between John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon in 1960.

From the moment of their first confrontation in Chicago on Sept. 26, it was evident that looks, personal charm and photographic qualities would henceforth outweigh rational discussion of national and international problems in affecting the outcome of the election.

Handsome, witty and well-spoken, Kennedy projected an air of youth, energy, self-assurance and competence. Nixon seemed uncomfortable and unsure of himself. In fact, reporters said he looked "tired, drawn and appeared to be ill."

On all counts, against the electronically generated, all-American-boy Kennedy personality, Nixon proved a poor match in the channel challenge. And the results were far-reaching. Both John and his brother, Robert Kennedy, admitted to newsmen that without the debates he could not have won the election.

This development set a precedent for future campaigns by pointing up the dominating of looks over logic, and since then hairdressers, make-up artists and lighting experts have assumed a major role in political strategy.

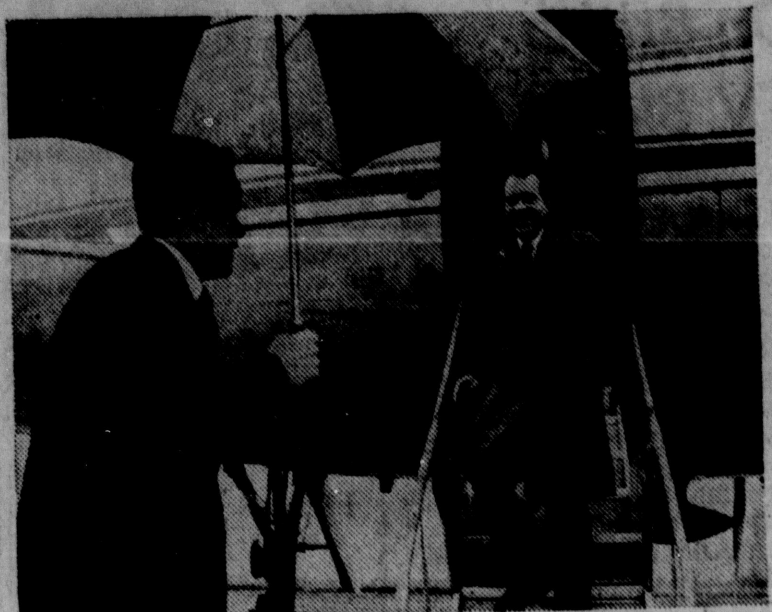

Dwight Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson, in 1952, had felt the initial impact of television proper, which for the first time that year played an important part in the campaign that ended with Ike's victory in November.

Previously, in 1920, radio had created a completely new climate for electioneering. With the use of the microphone, and a ordinary speaker could challenge the powerful oratory of an iron-lunged professional.

Alfred E. Smith's nasal, East Side New York speech, typified by his pronunciation of the word radio as "raddio," was one of the factors in his defeat by Herbert Hoover. His lack of elocutionary elegance aided the Republicans in their effort to picture Smith as a typical Tammany lowbrow.

Similarly, in 1932, Franklin D. Roosevelt's mellifluous voice and natural acting talent contrasted tellingly against Hoover's flat Midwestern tones. FDR's magnetic personality came over exceptionally well on radio and, with his famed fireside chats, that medium played an important part in his political fortunes.

Radio and television have inaugurated other changes. The printed word, formerly supreme because speeches had to be reported by newspapers to all, but the handful who had heard them, gave way to the spoken word, which could be brought to millions at the same time. Through these modern means of communication, public opinion undergoes swift changes and the electorate can be swayed right up to the time the polls open. Contrary to the old adage, talk is not cheap — at least on the air — so a new kind of speech making and a new kind of speech writer appeared on the political scene to make sure that every word was worth its weight in the gold that it cost.

Advertising agencies merchandised him with spot announcements, billboards and newspaper ads in the same manner in which they would ballyhoo a new soap product. Public relations men create a personality pleasing to the public and instruct the candidate in how to conform to his ready-made image. They even learn by means of polls how the public wants him to feel on certain issues and advise him to adhere to the desired policy.

The computer age has turned the art of gaining votes into a science. But though the means may differ today, the end is the same as always — to make one candidate the good guy, and his opponent the bad guy. George Washington had no rival for the first office of the land and won the election unanimously in 1788. Thus he is the only candidate in the history of the nation to escape vilification, calumny and blobs of mud that have been slung ever since Federalist John Adams defeated Republican Thomas Jefferson in the first election to be contested.

This violent campaign, in which the Federalist-negotiated Jay Treaty between the United States and Britain was the main issue, started in September 1796. Immediately it became bitter with charges and countercharges hurled, and newspapers, handbills and speakers on both sides attacking the candidates.

In subsequent years sometimes the issue was one of policy and other times it was merely a contest between two personalities.

charged with a series of bombings here of offices of nations that trade with Cuba.

The second stage of the revolutionary plan, Scotti said, specifically included killing Cuba's U.N. Ambassador Dr. Ricardo Alarcon de Quesada and theft of munitions from the 106th Infantry Armory in Brooklyn.

The third phase, Scotti said, was the bombing and destruction of foreign ships used in Cuban trade.

Arresting officers reportedly uncovered a cache of guns — some equipped with silencers — as well as loaded pistols and Army uniforms.

The nine men have been indicted by a Manhattan grand jury on charges of arson, reckless endangerment, criminal mischief and the illegal possession of weapons and explosives.

All were held in bail ranging in amounts from $7,500 to $25,000. A hearing was set for Nov. 7.

9 Anti-Castro Cubans Held In Plot To Kill Ambassador

NEW YORK (AP) — The arrest of nine anti-Castro Cubans has forestalled plans to assassinate the Cuban ambassador to the United Nations, and to raid a National Guard armory, says Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scotti.

The nine were seized Wednesday in pre-dawn raids and charged with a series of bombings here of offices of nations that trade with Cuba.

Nixon Lead Cut Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Two voter surveys sponsored by Republicans and a newspaper straw poll all show GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon leading Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in New York State.

The surveys differ, however, on the apparent trend in the contest for the states 43 electoral votes.

One survey taken by the Republican State Campaign Committee indicates Nixon will carry the state "by a plurality of upwards of 375,000 votes," with 47 per cent of the vote to Humphrey's 42 per cent.

But a poll taken by Cambridge Opinion Studies, sponsored by Republican auspices independent of the Nixon campaign, finds Humphrey gaining rapidly within the last two weeks to within two percentage points of Nixon.

The New York Daily News straw poll, in results published today, also shows Humphrey gaining on Nixon with the latter's lead cut to two percentage points.

But a poll taken by Cambridge Opinion Studies, sponsored by Republican auspices independent of the Nixon campaign, finds Humphrey gaining rapidly within the last two weeks to within two percentage points of Nixon.

Later contestants learned their lesson and in the next election the Democrats created a few slogans of their own, such as "Fifty-four forty or fight!" and "All Oregon or none." The Whigs retaliated feebly with "Redeem the country, restore prosperity," and "Hooray for Clay."

In one instance, during the 1884 campaign when Democrat Grover Cleveland was opposed by Republican James G. Blaine use of a slogan boomeranged.

Shortly before the election the Rev. Samuel D. Burchard, an ardent Blaine man, made a speech referring to the Democratic Party as one "whose antecedents have been Rum, Romanism and Rebellion."

The Democrats swiftly sensed the advantage of using this slogan for their own purposes, thus turning enough Irish Catholic voters against Blaine to cost him the presidency.

A major change in campaign literature has come about as a result of the paperback revolution. Soft-cover books dealing with presidential elections and candidates have started to appear — some 50 of them during the 1964 election.

Among the most unusual variations in pre-election tracts was Republic William McKinley's famed and successful "front-porch campaign" in 1896 against Democrat William Jennings Bryan.

In 1920 Warren G. Harding was to conduct a similarly successful "front-porch campaign" against James M. Cox, who stumped the country. Lincoln had made no speeches in 1860 because he feared anything he said might aggravate the rift between North and South.

With the extensive use of television, candidates need travel less. The era of grueling cross-country trips with the office seeker, surrounded by his smiling and waving family, speaking from the train's observation platform, is gone.

Truman conducted an old-fashioned "give 'em hell" grass-roots campaign tour in 1948, making 115 speeches on his western swing and greeting innumerable audiences of rural folk.

Probably the last great whistle-stop tour the nation will ever see is that undertaken by Eisenhower in 1952.

Bishop Takes Pulpit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In an action without precedent in Methodism, Bishop Gerald Kennedy has decided to become a parish pastor, while at the same time continuing to head the Los Angeles church area.

"I believe in the local church more than ever," he said, in announcing that he will become senior minister of First United Methodist Church, Pasadena, on Dec. 8. "I believe that if Christianity is to win it will be on that front. It seems to me that a bishop or any other bureaucrat needs to participate responsibly where the action is."

9 Anti-Castro Cubans Held In Plot To Kill Ambassador

NEW YORK (AP) — The arrest of nine anti-Castro Cubans has forestalled plans to assassinate the Cuban ambassador to the United Nations, and to raid a National Guard armory, says Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scott.

The nine were seized Wednesday in pre-dawn raids and charged with a series of bombings here of offices of nations that trade with Cuba.

The second stage of the revolutionary plan, Scott said, specifically included killing Cuba's U.N. Ambassador Dr. Ricardo Alarcon de Quesada and theft of munitions from the 106th Infantry Armory in Brooklyn.

The third phase, Scott said, was the bombing and destruction of foreign ships used in Cuban trade.

Arresting officers reported they uncovered a cache of guns—some equipped with silencers—as well as loaded pistols and Army uniforms.

The nine men have been indicted by a Manhattan grand jury on charges of arson, reckless endangerment, criminal mischief and the illegal possession of weapons and explosives.

All were held in bail ranging in amounts from $7,500 to $25,000. A hearing was set for Nov. 7.

Bishop Takes Pulpit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In an action without precedent in Methodism, Bishop Gerald Kennedy has decided to become a parish pastor, while at the same time continuing to head the Los Angeles church area.

"I believe in the local church more than ever," he said, in announcing that he will become senior minister of First United Methodist Church, Pasadena, on Dec. 8. "I believe that if Christianity is to win it will be at that front. It seems to me that a bishop or any other bureaucrat needs to participate responsibly where the action is."

Nixon Lead Cut Down

NEW YORK (AP) — Two voter surveys sponsored by Republicans and a newspaper straw poll all show GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon leading Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in New York State.

The surveys differ, however, on the apparent trend in the contest for the states' 43 electoral votes.

One survey taken by the Republican State Campaign Committee indicates Nixon will carry the state "by a plurality of upwards of 375,000 votes," with 47 per cent of the vote to Humphrey's 42 per cent.

But a poll taken by Cambridge Opinion Studies, sponsored by Republican auspices independent of the Nixon campaign, finds Humphrey gaining rapidly within the last two weeks to within two percentage points of Nixon.

The New York Daily News straw poll, in results published today, also shows Humphrey gaining on Nixon with the latter's lead cut to two percentage points.

Nudist Film On British TV Slapped

LONDON (AP) — A British television documentary showing a bunch of happy nudists shocked a number of viewers Wednesday night, and several TV critics complained that it was a mighty poor advertisement for sex.

Male and female anatomy was shown in the film screen over the British Broadcasting Corp. color network, BBC-2.

After the opening shot of two naked men by a swimming pool, producer Desmond Wilcox warned the audience that some families might find the uncoverage a bit embarrassing.

"We have had a lot of telephone calls from viewers complaining about the program," a BBC official said later.

The nudists, who prefer to be called naturists, were seen romping around in summer camps, and some of them later squeezed on to a sofa to be interviewed by a fully clothed girl reporter.

"A huge acreage of the human form was revealed, but most of the bodies on display would have persuaded me to take vows of celibacy," critic Robert Ottaway wrote in the Daily Sketch.

Martin Jackson of the Daily Express commented: "Not only did it all seem rather uncomfortable but very silly and sad. Nothing could be less sexy than the sight of all those saggy bodies and nothing more depressing than the relentless pursuit in the drizzling English weather."

Summit County Accord Expected

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Some 250 striking Summit County workers were expected to be back at their jobs by noon today—providing the county commissioners approved a plan to transfer $200,000 in surplus funds to cover paid hospitalization for the employees.

Harold O. Watson, executive director of Council 11, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, said Wednesday the strikers would return to work if the commissioners kept a promise to provide the funds for a paidup hospitalization program.

Vatican Says Jackie A 'Sinner'

ATHENS (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis' bridegroom of four days left her for the first time today, interrupting their honeymoon to fly to Athens on business.

While shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis worked at his downtown Athens office, his bride remained on his palatial yacht Christina moored at Scorpions, his private island in the Ionian Sea 300 miles northwest of Athens.

Onassis was expected to fly back to Scorpions tonight to rejoin his bride.

At present, Onassis is negotiating a $360 million contract with the Greek government for an industrial complex consisting of an oil refinery, aluminum plant and related installations.

At the Vatican, meanwhile, experts on Roman Catholic canon law said no matter what Richard Cardinal Cushing says, the Roman church considers that the new Mrs. Onassis is living with another woman's husband.

Cardinal Cushing, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston and a close friend of the Kennedy family, said Tuesday it was "a lot of nonsense" to say that President Kennedy's widow had excommunicated herself by her marriage to Aristotle Socrates Onassis, a divorced member of the Greek Orthodox Church.

It is technically correct that she is not excommunicated, canon lawyers and marriage experts at the Vatican said, but they explained that her church regards the new Mrs. Onassis as a "public sinner" and as such she is barred from receiving the sacraments, such as confession, communion and extreme unction. She may still attend Mass, however.

There has been speculation that Cardinal Cushing arranged some sort of agreement for the Vatican to accept the Kennedy-Onassis marriage last weekend, but lawyers at the Vatican said they had no knowledge of anything like that.

The Vatican's press spokesman indicated the Vatican would have nothing to say about the cardinal's remarks.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Onassis and her multimillionaire Greek husband continued to honeymoon on his private island in the Ionian Sea and went for a swim in a secluded cove Wednesday.

The Washington Post reported that Onassis' wedding gift to his new wife was a "priceless set of heart-shaped rubies surrounded by diamonds" which Paris newspapers reported was valued at $1.2 million.

Democrat Elson Fighting Goldwater For Senate Seat

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizonaans are being told a vote for Barry Goldwater is an endorsement of the Grand Canyon and the spirit of the Western pioneers.

The message comes from an obviously well-financed campaign to return Goldwater to the U.S. Senate, where he served for 12 years before trying unsuccessfully for the White House four years ago.

Roy Elson, 38, a Democrat making his second try for the Senate, is fighting hard to beat the Republican Goldwater. In 1964 he lost to GOP Sen. Paul Fannin. Elson's main campaign asset is the endorsement of retiring Sen. Carl Hayden, 91.

A supermarket survey published recently by a Phoenix newspaper gave Goldwater 57 per cent, with Elson getting 33 per cent of those interviewed. Goldwater aides say this is about what their own polls show.

Convict Ohioans Of Conspiracy In Stock Theft

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury Wednesday convicted two Youngstown, Ohio, men of conspiracy and transporting stolen stocks valued at almost a quarter of a million dollars.

They remained free on $5,000 bond each.

Mainier and Farris were accused of illegally transporting to New York last May $224,000 in securities stolen last year from a vault in Forest Park, Ga., and from a home in Aliquippa, Pa.

These sources said the church does not consider the former first lady married to Onassis because it does not recognize his divorce and still considers him married to his first wife, the former Tina Livanos. The first Mrs. Onassis is now married to the Marquess of Blandford, a Briton.

Canon lawyers said there are two courses open to the former Mrs. Kennedy if she wants to get back in the good graces of her church: leave Onassis and receive absolution, or get a ruling from the church courts that his first marriage is invalid and marry him in the Roman church.

Six Seniors Make Vikings Strong League Contenders

By CAROL HUTCHINSON and BARBARA LEMASTER

The senior boys on the Teays Valley football team this year include Mark Leatherwood who is the team captain. He is a halfback and plays defensive safety. This year Mark has been a good halfback blocker.

Mike Buckingham is playing for the first time this year on Teays Valley's team. Mike is a quarterback. He is a good passer when given the chance to throw.

Jerry Nicholas is the line backer. He is a good defensive player and a good tackler.

Dean Forson plays tackle on offense and defense. He is one of the bigger and stronger boys on the team. Coach Kidwell thinks it will be difficult to replace Dean next year.

Mark Brinker plays defensive end tackle. He plays consistent defense. He is a good blocker. Mark plays the offensive line.

Coach Kidwell feels the team is progressing with every ball game and is improving steadily. He says that the scores of some of the games are no indication of how close the games have been. He also stated that the offensive unit showed significant improvement in Dublin's ball game, where we were able to control the ball during most of the game.

With as many seniors as there are playing this year and with so many juniors and sophomores playing regularly, the Vikings should be a definite title contender in the Metropolitan League next year.

This week Viking Yearbook advisor, Mr. Larry Milam, explained the purposes of the Taylor Publishing Company workshop at the YWCA Oct. 8, which he and six staff members attended.

The editors studied yearbooks from other schools to see how the price of our yearbook compared with theirs. They studied picture-taking necessity of candid pictures instead of posed pictures.

The editors learned the use of cropping, which is the enlargement of a picture to show less of the background or landscape. They talked about ways to sell advertising.

Mr. Milam concluded that most of the time was spent on studying layouts to see which ones attracted more attention.

Students Hold Building Over Racial Course

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Students held a barricaded University of California building today in another attempt to gain academic credits for a course on racism featuring lectures by Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver.

There was no violence and no sign of police as an estimated 150 persons seized Moses Hall Wednesday evening. Campus patrolmen the night before arrested 121 who staged a sit-in at Sproul Hall, the university's administration building.

Because a number of students shimmied up and down fire hoses or climbed rear fire escapes, it was not possible to tell exactly how many remained inside Moses Hall, which houses the College of Letters and Science.

Another 600 or 700 were outside the hall, after those inside requested that they hamper any police efforts to evict them.

'Lifting Body' Mishap Probed In California

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Air Force Maj. Jerauld Gentry says he is "anxious to try again as soon as we can find out what went wrong" in the first powered-flight test of a wingless, wedge-shaped prototype of aerospace ferries.

The craft, designated the HL10 "lifting body," was dropped Tuesday from a B52 bomber eight miles high. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration wanted Gentry, 33, to ignite two chambers of a four-chamber 8,000-pound thrust engine and then climb to 45,000 feet. One chamber ignited, but repeated attempts to start any of the others failed.

Gentry, who handled the 22-foot craft in previous glide tests, landed without power on Rosamond Dry Lake, 18 miles from his intended point.

Later versions of the HL10 may ferry astronauts back from orbit.

Six Seniors Make Vikings Strong League Contenders

By CAROL HUTCHINSON and BARBARA LEMASTER

The senior boys on the Teays Valley football team this year include Mark Leatherwood who is the team captain. He is a halfback and plays defensive safety. This year Mark has been a good halfback blocker.

Mike Buckingham is playing for the first time this year on Teays Valley's team. Mike is a quarterback. He is a good passer when given the chance to throw.

Jerry Nicholas is the line backer. He is a good defensive player and a good tackler.

Dean Forson plays tackle on offense and defense. He is one of the bigger and stronger boys on the team. Coach Kidwell thinks it will be difficult to replace Dean next year.

Mark Brinker plays defensive end tackle. He plays consistent defense. He is a good blocker. Mark plays the offensive line.

Coach Kidwell feels the team is progressing with every ball game and is improving steadily. He says that the scores of some of the games are no indication of how close the games have been. He also stated that the offensive unit showed significant improvement in Dublin's ball game, where we were able to control the ball during most of the game.

With as many seniors as there are playing this year and with so many juniors and sophomores playing regularly, the Vikings should be a definite title contender in the Metropolitan League next year.

The dispute hinges on the hiring of contract labor.

Intramurals Are Enjoyed By Students

By MARILYN BARR

Students participate in intramurals during their lunch periods. Mr. Ray Justice is in charge of the fourth period intramurals and Miss Linda Warner, fifth period intramurals.

Girls' intramurals began with softball and now volleyball. They plan to have basketball, badminton and table tennis later in the year.

Boys' intramurals began with touch football, soccer and now midget basketball. Midget basketball requires making a basket from a sitting-down position on the floor. The boys make four to five baskets in a 15-minute time limit. There are 80 boys participating.

Mr. Justice says, "The boys are competitive and are having a good time." They plan to have dodge ball and basketball later in the year.

There are no organized intramurals on Fridays; everyone is free to play.

Tigers Face Wilmington With Revamped Backfield

The Circleville High School football team, riddled by injuries and scholastic ineligibility at key positions, hosts Wilmington Friday in the final South Central Ohio League game of the season.

Wilmington is in second place in the league, having lost only to Washington C. H. by a margin of two points.

The Hurricanes were leading in that game until the final few seconds when Stanley Brown caught a pass in the end zone for the 18-16 Blue Lion win.

DUANE Petty, a junior, is the backup quarterback for the Hurricane.

Although Wilmington does not have a great deal of size, the line is anchored by 215 pound tackle Doug Gordley, a two-way player.

Among Rosenberg's favorite targets when he passes is sophomore end Jeff Garman, who stands 6-2.

Wilmington has good speed. They lost one of two pre-league games and have had little trouble with SCO opposition except for Washington.

For Circleville, Rick Sims has made the complete circle in the backfield. Starting the season as the Tiger quarterback, he was shifted to halfback, and Friday will play fullback.

The halfbacks will be Mike Henderson and Danny Smith while sophomore quarterback

Tom Bowers will direct the attack.

STEVE Barthelmas is out for the season with an injury and Don Cordle has been shifted to center to fill the gap. Cordle played some center as a sophomore for Circleville.

Steve Olney will replace Cordle at tackle. On defense, Paul Bost and Brent Liston have earned the starting assignment at ends. Also out with an injury is Dick Radcliff, defensive end.

Otherwise the starting alignment will be about the same.

On offense, Phil Diehl and Dick Walters will be the ends, Olney and Wayne Garrison the tackles, Jim Samuel, Mark Ralston and John Schroeder will see most of the action at guard and Cordle will play center.

Wilmington has the best pass defense in the league and has allowed the fewest points scored of any league team. In rushing, they rank right behind Washington, and in passing they are third in the league.

Elsewhere around the league Friday, Washington travels to Hillsboro to shoot for an unbeaten SCO crown and Miami Trace hosts Greenfield.

Larry Cole Named NFL Top Player

NEW YORK (AP) — When the high-powered pro scouts checked their files, took a last look at the game films and ran their data through a bank of computers before the draft last spring, Larry Cole was No. 428 on the list.

The Dallas Cowboys took Cole, a 6-foot, 4, 230-pound tackle, from the University of Hawaii and Granite Falls, Minn., in the 16th round, their next to last pick. His thumbnail sketch was crowded out of their press book.

Cole, a tall blond youngster, put on 25 pounds during the summer and won himself a job on the Cowboy squad. In the last two weeks, he has moved into the regular line-up of the famous Dooomsday Defense as a replacement for the injured Willie Townes at left end.

Against the Minnesota Vikings in his home country last Sunday, Cole blocked a field goal attempt and hit Joe Kapp, Minnesota quarterback, so hard that his wobbly pass was intercepted by Cornell Green. Then he threw a block that sprung Green on a 55-yard touchdown run with the interception.

As a result of this performance, the rookie was named by The Associated Press as the defensive player of the week in the National Football League.

Willie Davis, veteran Green Bay defensive end, also drew a recommendation for his play in the 14-14 tie with Detroit. Davis led the front four in harassment of quarterback Bill Munson. Davis also recovered two fumbles in the fourth quarter, one of which led to the tying touchdown.

Ronnie Harris Wins Olympic Boxing

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Ronnie Harris, a student at Kent State University in Ohio, advanced to the semifinals of the Olympic boxing tournament Wednesday and assured himself of a medal.

He beat Mohamed Murili of Uganda in the lightweight quarter-finals, scoring repeatedly with straight jabs and left hooks.

All semifinalists are assured of Olympic medals, since the losing semifinalists each receive bronze medals.

Harris is from Canton, Ohio.

Firestone To Get Out Of Racing?

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. said Wednesday it will likely be out of motor racing by next year.

A company spokesman confirmed that Firestone, one of the oldest names in motor racing, is temporarily pulling out of championship and stock car racing.

Presently, the only driver under contract to the company is Italian-born Mario Andretti.

Andretti's contract may not be renewed and, the spokesman said, "for all intents and purposes" the company will be out of motor racing by the start of the 1969 season.

Over one year ago Firestone Chairman Raymond C. Firestone said racing contracts signed by rubber firms were becoming completely "unrealistic."

U.S. Dominates Olympics Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A breath of scandal, a hint of under-the-counter payoffs around the world, threw another darkening cloud over the 19th Olympic Games today, while the United States continued to gather a golden cascade of medals.

The Americans picked up six more gold medals Wednesday, including their first two in sports other than track and swimming, and the Russians began to make their move in gymnastics, in which 36 gold medals are awarded.

In all, the Americans now have 81 medals, including 35 gold, and the Russians have 49, with 15 gold.

Dan Ferris, 79, white-haired secretary emeritus of the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union and a newly elected member of the Council of the International Athletic Federation, ruling body for track and field around the world, dropped the bombshell about commercial firms paying athletes to use their products.

"Indications are that payoffs have been made to athletes of virtually all countries," he said, and added that an "investigation centers around those athletes who did not see fit to notify their superiors of the payments."

He said the payoffs range from five hundred dollars to six thousand dollars.

Everett Barnes, acting director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said in a prepared statement that "at this time we have nothing to substantiate the rumors with respect to athletes subject to our jurisdiction."

"If anyone has any concrete evidence to offer about U.S. athletes in this connection we shall be pleased to follow up the information."

And Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said:

"I have not yet received any concrete evidence that any athlete has received any money. Any investigation of this kind must be undertaken by the National Federation concerned."

"Then the National Federation reports to the International Federation, and if it is proved beyond any doubt that any Olympic athlete has received money, the international federation must suspend him."

"If that happens, then any athlete who won any medal in the Mexican games automatically would forfeit it."

The controversy is only one of many that has plagued these troubled Games, but, like all the others, the effects—if any—on the athletes appear negligible.

Bill Steinkraus, 43 Noroton, Conn., riding Snowbound, won the gold medal in individual horse jumping—including one perfect round—and Gary L. Anderson, Axtell, Neb., won the free rifle competition, breaking his own world record with 1157 of a possible 2000. Russian Valentin Kornev was second at 1151.

The other two NHL games also saw established teams pick on their year-old expansion brothers. The New York Rangers, chief tormentors of the new clubs, crushed Oakland 6-1 and Montreal beat Los Angeles 5-2.

Goals by Henderson, Ullman and Tim Horton with in a 4-2 period sparked Toronto past St. Louis and ruined Glenn Hall's season debut as the Blues' goalie.

Bobby Hull and Doug Mohns joined Pappin as two-goal scorers for Chicago while Stan Mikita and Dennis Hull had one apiece for the high-scoring Black Hawks.

Players Named

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A baseball players poll conducted by the Sporting News has given Pete Rose of the Cincinnati Reds and Ken Harrelson of the Boston Red Sox top honors as players of the year.

Hurlers Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers and Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals scored best in the pitchers category.

"I think you'd have to say my experience contributes something to it," Steinkraus said after his victory. He has been a member of the American Olympic equestrian team since 1952.

The United States picked up four more gold medals in swimming, including its first ever in the women's 200-meter breaststroke. Sharon Wichman, 16, Fort Wayne, Ind., copped it in Olympic record time of 2:44.4.

Russian Galina Prozumenshikova was third.

The victory came as a surprise since the American ace, Katie Ball, had withdrawn from the qualifying heats because of illness.

Mike Burton, Carmichael, Calif., took the men's 400-meter freestyle in Olympic record time of 4:09, beating Canada's world record holder, Ralph Hutton, by three meters.

Kay Hall, 17, Tacoma, Wash., pulled an upset by edging Canada's favored Elaine Tanner in the women's 100-meter backstroke in 1:06.2, a world record. Jan Swaggerty, 17, Stockton, Calif., was third.

Charles Hickcox of Phoenix, Ariz., in 4:48.4, and Gary Hall, Garden Grove, Calif., finished one-two in the men's 400-meter individual medley. Michael Holman of West Germany was third, just edging Greg Buckingham, Atterton, Calif.

The U.S. had to be content with a fourth by Sue Peterson, Bellevue, Wash., in the women's platform dive. Alena Muchkova of Czechoslovakia won it with Russian Natalia Lobanova second.

Pierre Franco Vianelli of Italy won the cycling individual open road race, and Josef Zapadky of Poland took the rapid fire pistol competition.

The Russians picked up three medals, one of them gold, in the two final gymnastic competitions, but had to share the glory with pretty Vera Caslavskaya of Czechoslovakia.

The Russians, expected to dominate the competition, won the women's team title, despite a thrilling individual performance by Miss Caslavskaya. Czechoslovakia was second and East Germany third.

Miss Caslavskaya won her second Olympic all-around title, however, followed by Zina Voronina and Natalia Kucharskaya, both of Russia.

And for the first time in years, two American girls made it to the finals of a gymnastics event. Linda Metheny of Tulsa, Ill., and Cathy Rigby, Alamitos, Calif., qualified for the balance beams finals.

The United States also sent seven boxers into the semifinals, with all assured of medals. There are no bouts for third place, with bronze medals being awarded both losing semifinalists.

OSU Leads Grid Data

CHICAGO (AP) — Unbeaten Ohio State ranks first in defense and second on offense in the latest Big Ten football statistics.

The Buckeyes have yielded just 236 yards per conference game, and on offense their 488 yards per game is second only to Iowa's 519.

Indiana teammates Harry Gonso and John Isenbarger are the leaders in the individual statistics. Quarterback Gonso, from Findlay, Ohio, is the leading passer with 428 yards and the leader on total offense with 606 yards.

Isenbarger tops the conference runners with 342 yards in three games.

Ohio State has played just two conference games, but quarterback Rex Kern ranks fifth in passing with 248 yards, and fifth in total offense with 414 yards. Fullback Jim Otis is the fifth leading rusher with 192 yards.

Charlie Computer Predicts ?-? Kent-Marshall Game

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charlie, the computer, is ill. Charlie has been sputtering and coughing a lot lately. He's been behaving irregularly with a nasty disposition.

Someone's been feeding the electronic brain facts and figures distressing to the digestive system.

Even a machine as smart as Charlie has trouble occasionally. Besides, Mr. C., as he is affectionately known, has been overworked in recent weeks.

There were those zealous analysts who wanted to know the World Series winner in advance. After three days of careful feeding, Charlie sputtered out this message: "The Tigers in seven."

Computer technicians, who have harried Charlie for answers on the presidential election, thought they'd give Mr. C. a respite from the political grind.

"We're always bugging Charlie to give us the outcome of a major sporting event," said one computer operator. "This time, we thought we'd give his overworked cylinders a rest."

With Charlie's health in mind, technicians posed this question: "Who will win the Kent State-Marshall football game?"

Now ordinarily, this type of questioning is quite palatable and poses no problem for Mr. C's aluminum-lined stomach.

But the two teams, still searching for their first victory, don't meet until Nov. 9. That really threw Mr. C. in a tizzy. Charlie absorbed some shocking information that shook his nuts and bolts. He growled and grunted and his trouble lights flashed constantly. The gory details included these distasteful tidbits:

Marshall is 0-5-1 and hasn't won a football game since 1966. The Thundering Herd is averaging nine points a game and has allowed 30.

Kent, 0-6, is having its worst season since 1929, and is scoring only 6 points a game and yielding 24.

Charlie never had it so tough. But after pondering the problem for 45 seconds, the courageous Mr. C. came forth with this prediction:

"A scoreless tie."

Tigers Face Wilmington With Revamped Backfield

The Circleville High School football team, riddled by injuries and scholastic ineligibility at key positions, hosts Wilmington Friday in the final South Central Ohio League game of the season.

Wilmington is in second place in the league, having lost only to Washington C. H. by a margin of two points.

The Hurricanes were leading in that game until the final few seconds when Stanley Brown caught a pass in the end zone for the 18-16 Blue Lion win.

DUANE Petty, a junior, is the backup quarterback for the Hurricane.

Although Wilmington does not have a great deal of size, the line is anchored by 215 pound tackle Doug Gordley, a two-way player.

Among Rosenberg's favorite targets when he passes is sophomore end Jeff Garman, who stands 6-2.

Wilmington has good speed. They lost one of two pre-league games and have had little trouble with SCO opposition except for Washington.

For Circleville, Rick Sims has made the complete circle in the backfield. Starting the season as the Tiger quarterback, he was shifted to halfback, and Friday will play fullback.

The halfbacks will be Mike Henderson and Danny Smith while sophomore quarterback

Tom Bowers will direct the attack.

STEVE Barthelmas is out for the season with an injury and Don Cordle has been shifted to center to fill the gap. Cordle played some center as a sophomore for Circleville.

Steve Olney will replace Cordle at tackle. On defense, Paul Bost and Brent Liston have earned the starting assignment at ends. Also out with an injury is Dick Radcliff, defensive end.

Otherwise the starting alignment will be about the same.

On offense, Phil Diehl and Dick Walters will be the ends, Olney and Wayne Garrison the tackles, Jim Samuel, Mark Ralston and John Schroeder will see most of the action at guard and Cordle will play center.

Wilmington has the best pass defense in the league and has allowed the fewest points scored of any league team. In rushing, they rank right behind Washington, and in passing they are third in the league.

Elsewhere around the league Friday, Washington travels to Hillsboro to shoot for an unblemished SCO crown and Miami Trace hosts Greenfield.

Larry Cole Named NFL Top Player

NEW YORK (AP) — When the high-powered pro scouts checked their files, took a last look at the game films and ran their data through a bank of computers before the draft last spring, Larry Cole was No. 428 on the list.

The Dallas Cowboys took Cole, a 6-foot, 4, 230-pound tackle, from the University of Hawaii and Granite Falls, Minn., in the 16th round, their next to last pick. His thumbnail sketch was crowded out of their press book.

Cole, a tall blond youngster, put on 25 pounds during the summer and won himself a job on the Cowboy squad. In the last two weeks, he has moved into the regular line-up of the famous Doomsday Defense as a replacement for the injured Willie Townes at left end.

Against the Minnesota Vikings in his home country last Sunday, Cole blocked a field goal attempt and hit Joe Kapp, Minnesota quarterback, so hard that his wobbly pass was intercepted by Cornell Green. Then he threw a block that sprung Green on a 55-yard touchdown run with the interception.

As a result of this performance, the rookie was named by The Associated Press as the defensive player of the week in the National Football League.

Willie Davis, veteran Green Bay defensive end, also drew a recommendation for his play in the 14-14 tie with Detroit. Davis led the front four in harassment of quarterback Bill Munson. Davis also recovered two fumbles in the fourth quarter, one of which led to the tying touchdown.

Maple Leaf's Bomb Blues For 6-4 Win

Firestone To Get Out Of Racing?

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. said Wednesday it will likely be out of motor racing by next year.

A company spokesman confirmed that Firestone, one of the oldest names in motor racing, is temporarily pulling out of championship and stock car racing.

Charles Hickcox of Phoenix, Ariz., in 4:48.4, and Gary Hall, Garden Grove, Calif., finished one-two in the men's 400-meter individual medley. Michael Holanous of West Germany was third, just edging Greg Buckingham, Atterton, Calif.

The U.S. had to be content with a fourth, by Sue Peterson, Bellevue, Wash., in the women's platform dive. Alena Truchkova of Czechoslovakia won it with Russian Natalia Lobanova second.

Pierre Franco Vianelli of Italy won the cycling individual open road race, and Josef Zapadzi of Poland took the rapid fire pistol competition.

The Russians picked up three medals, one of them gold, in the two final gymnastic competitions, but had to share the glory with pretty Vera Czislavka of Czechoslovakia.

The Russians, expected to dominate the competition, won the women's team title, despite a thrilling individual performance by Miss Caslavka. Czechoslovakia was second and East Germany third.

Miss Caslavka won her second Olympic all-around title however, followed by Zina Voronina and Natalia Kuchinskaya, both of Russia.

And for the first time in 20 years, two American girls made it to the finals of a gymnastic event. Linda Metheny of Tusculum, Ill., and Cathy Rigby, Los Alamitos, Calif., qualified for the balance beam finals.

The United States also sent seven boxers into the semifinals, with all assured of medals. There are no bouts for third place, with bronze medals being awarded both losing semifinalists.

OSU Leads Grid Data

CHICAGO (AP) — Unbeaten Ohio State ranks first in defense and second on offense in the latest Big Ten football statistics.

The Buckeyes have yielded just 236 yards per conference game, and on offense their 488 yards per game is second only to Iowa's 519.

Indiana teammates Harry Gonso and John Isenbarger are the leaders in the individual statistics. Quarterback Gonso, from Findlay, Ohio, is the leading passer with 428 yards and the leader on total offense with 606 yards.

Isenbarger tops the conference runners with 342 yards in three games.

Ohio State has played just two conference games, but quarterback Rex Kern ranks fifth in passing with 248 yards, and fifth in total offense with 414 yards. Fullback Jim Osis is the fifth leading rusher with 192 yards.

Charlie Computer Predicts ?-? Kent-Marshall Game

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charlie, the computer, is ill. Charlie has been sputtering and coughing a lot lately. He's been behaving irregularly with a nasty disposition.

Someone's been feeding the electronic brain facts and figures distressing to the digestive system.

Even a machine as smart as Charlie has trouble occasionally. Besides, Mr. C., as he is affectionately known, has been overworked in recent weeks.

There were those zealous analysts who wanted to know the World Series winner in advance. After three days of careful feeding, Charlie sputtered out this message: "The Tigers in seven."

Computer technicians, who have harried Charlie for answers on the presidential election, thought they'd give Mr. C. a respite from the political grind.

"We're always bugging Charlie to give us the outcome of a major sporting event," said one computer operator. "This time, we thought we'd give his overworked cylinders a rest."

With Charlie's health in mind, technicians posed this question: "Who will win the Kent State-Marshall football game?"

Now ordinarily, this type of questioning is quite palatable and poses no problem for Mr. C's aluminum-lined stomach.

But the two teams, still searching for their first victory, don't meet until Nov. 9. That really threw Mr. C. in a tizzy.

Charlie absorbed some shocking information that shook his nuts and bolts. He growled and grunted and his trouble lights flashed constantly. The gory details included these distasteful tidbits:

Marshall is 0-5-1 and hasn't won a football game since 1966. The Thundering Herd is averaging nine points a game and has allowed 30.

Kent, 0-6, is having its worst season since 1929, and is scoring only 6 points a game and yielding 24.

Charlie never had it so tough. But after pondering the problem for 45 seconds, the courageous Mr. C. came forth with this prediction:

"A scoreless tie."

OHSAA Protests Friday Pro TV

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio High School Athletic Association has gone on record as protesting the telecast of a professional football game involving the Cincinnati Bengals.

The game in question was played Friday, Sept. 6 at San Diego and started at 8:30 p.m. (EDT).

Most Ohio high schools play their football on Friday nights and Sept. 6 was the opening date for the interscholastic football season in the Buckeye State.

Commissioner Paul Landis said his office was flooded with telephone calls, telegrams and letters protesting the Bengals-Chargers game on TV.

"The playing and telecasting of a pro football game on a Friday night definitely affects the attendance at high school games on the same night. High Schools depend on football gate receipts to support the nonrevenue producing sports in a broad program of interscholastic athletics," Landis said.

The OHSAA has a regulation that prevents the telecasting of Friday night football games by its member schools.

The association, at its last meeting, adopted a resolution protesting the playing and telecasting of professional football games on Friday night and asking the cooperation of pro football organizations in Ohio to avoid such games in the future.

Scholastic sidelights — Hamilton Badin had three of its four starting offensive backs sideling streak for the Rams, lined with injuries last weekend who are now 45-1-2 in their last 48 games.

Kurt Sarringhaus, son of Paul Sarringhaus, who starred at Ohio State in the early 1940s, is Butler County's leading scorer with 72 points for Lemon-Monroe.

But Lemon-Monroe's 22-20 loss to Oxford Talawanda was its first in seven starts and gave Talawanda the inside track to ward the Mid-Miami League title.

Hamilton Taft's Craig McGuire gained 211 yards against Columbus Central including a school record 85-yard touchdown sprint.

Junior flankerback Gary Kutch scored six touchdowns in Newark Catholic's 76-6 romp over New Albany Saturday. He now has 126 points while teammate Mike McKee has 104 points and 998 yards in 121 carries.

West Muskingum, ranked sixth in Class A, is paced by halfback Jeff Murrey who has tallied 108 points.

Sandusky St. Mary's 5-2, lost to Huron 20-6 Friday and both its setbacks have come to Class AA schools.

Roger Zimmer, who has 20 TDs, scored three times for Northeastern (Clark County) in a victory over Greenon as the unbeaten Jets ran their mark to 7-0.

Gene Banks of Hopedale scored a whopping 42 points in a 64-6 win over Jewett. Dover St. Joseph's quarterback Tom Bazzoli ran and passed for 189 yards against Indian Valley South in a first half display of offensive power.

Newcomerstown's Whit Parks has 16 touchdowns and 12 extra points for 108 points. Portersville back Mike White has registered 107 points.

Youngstown Raven, 6-1, faces Youngstown Chaney, 4-2-1, for the city championship Friday. Raven beat Chaney 8-6 earlier in the season.

Lakers Lose Again; West Suffers 2nd Half Injury

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
So far it hadn't looked like the dawning of a new era for the Los Angeles Lakers, but it's the same old story for Jerry West.

The Lakers lost 117-110 to Detroit Wednesday night for their third defeat in four games — hardly an auspicious beginning for a team picked by many to win its first National Basketball Association title behind Elgin Baylor, West and newly acquired Wilt Chamberlain.

For West it was the injury hex again. West scored 19 points in the first half but then sat out most of the second half with a groin injury.

In other NBA action, Boston handed Cincinnati its first defeat 108-101, Atlanta topped Chicago 106-91, New York nipped Milwaukee 114-112 and Seattle edged San Diego 119-117.

Louisville edged Indianapolis 112-108 in the only American Basketball Association game.

Detroit was leading by two points early in the fourth quarter when rookie Otto Moore scored two quick baskets that sparked a Pistons surge that gave them a 10-point lead and put the game out of reach.

Dave Bing led Detroit with 39 points. Baylor got 31 and Cham-

Nixon Still Refuses Debate; Gains New Negro Support

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon embarking on a 157-mile motorcade through eastern Pennsylvania, accused Hubert H. Humphrey today of peddling nonsense and pursuing "slap-happy economics."

The Republican presidential candidate was greeted in Allentown by bigger-than-usual street crowds and an overflow indoor audience at the city's fairgrounds.

Before flying to Pennsylvania from Michigan, Nixon rejected the latest proposal for a televised debate with Humphrey—this one offered by third-party presidential candidate George C. Wallace.

Press aide Ron Ziegler said of the Wallace suggestion, it "doesn't change a thing" and the debate question remains closed.

In a statement issued in Allentown, Nixon accused his Democratic rival of peddling nonsense because, as he put it, "apparently he hopes to frighten some people into voting—not for him but against us."

More than once Humphrey has challenged Nixon's attitude toward Social Security and Medicare, and the GOP candidate said, "Now let's talk this once and for all. My record is clear."

"I'm for Social Security. I'm for Medicare. What I say is wrong is that those programs haven't been working effectively to help the people they're supposed to help."

Nixon also said many Americans are "paying through the nose for Mr. Humphrey's slap-happy economics," because of inflation.

Wallace said he'd welcome an hour-long TV debate between the Republican and Democratic candidates, provided the networks "give me 30 minutes' time the next night."

He said he could "fix both of them" in a half hour.

The Republican candidate called on voters today to elect a Republican Congress.

In a statement issued in Michigan before embarking on a four-city tour of eastern Pennsylvania, Nixon dealt with what he termed the "harmful consequences of divided government" and said:

"Give me a Republican Congress to work with my Republican administration. I assure the American people that, if this is done, we will gladly accept full responsibility for what I am certain will be a new period of growth, a resurgence of progress..."

Just 10 days ago Nixon saw

Republican chances of gaining control of Congress as a long shot, predicting GOP gains of 30-40 seats in the house and 8-14 in the Senate. The Republicans would need 31 additional seats to organize the House and 13—a figure generally believed to be well beyond reach—to take over the Senate.

In Chicago, the Political Action Committee of the National Baptist Convention has endorsed Nixon and the organization's head has urged its six-million Negro members to support the Republican candidate.

Dr. J. H. Jackson, president of the convention since 1953, told a news conference Wednesday it was the first time the organization has endorsed a Republican candidate. He urged the convention's members to support Nixon and added: "We believe this orderly change is best at this time for the nation as a whole."

Five People Sentenced In County Court

Jail sentences awaited two and probation three people as they were called before the bench of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Wednesday.

Charles Hampp, Circleville, was charged with grand larceny, having broken into White's TV and Appliance Store on June 3, and stealing $90 worth of radios.

Hampp was on probation at the time of the offense. He had previously been tried and found guilty of grand larceny and breaking and entering.

He was sentenced to 1-7 years at hard labor for the most recent incident of grand larceny. Probation on the other offenses which carried sentences of 1-7 years, were revoked. The three sentences are to be served concurrently at Mansfield Reformatory.

CAROL Rose, Circleville, pleaded guilty to charges of forgery, issuing checks without an account and issuing a check with insufficient funds. She stated that she used the money to buy food for her children.

A sentence of 1-20 years was imposed on the first charge. 30 days in county jail on the second and one to seven years on the third charge. The county jail sentence was suspended and the two remaining sentences were ordered to be served concurrently at Marysville Reformatory.

John Parrish Jr., Davton, was charged with grand larceny for stealing a $200 auto transmission from Deere Creek Auto Parts, Williamsport, Sunday.

Parrish, who pleaded guilty to the charge, stated that he had come to Circleville with friends to see the Pumpkin Show. He told the judge that he really didn't know what he was doing when he took the transmission.

Parrish was placed on three year's probation and ordered not to return to Pickaway County.

Marie and James Campbell, Lower Lane, entered pleas of guilty to charges of forging a check. The check was a neighbor's social security check for $44.30.

Both were placed on three year's probation.

Roundtown

(Continued from Page 1) being conducted in the county was issued by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff Thursday. The sheriff stated that magazine salesmen are misrepresenting the costs of magazines they are selling. The salesmen state that the customer will be charged only for handling costs if he tries a trial subscription, but by the time the customer pays the charges the price is several times higher than normal.

WITH the approaching presidential election many people and groups are holding polls of their own to determine which candidate will win. Eighth graders at Monroe Twp. School held a mock election recently for that same purpose. Nixon won with 57 votes, Wallace had 15 votes, Humphrey, 2, and Paulsen, 13.

Test Drive Ends As Auto Theft

A pleasantly dressed man entered the Clif on Motor Sales lot Monday, asked to test drive one of the cars, took it out of the lot and never returned, according to a sheriff's report.

Clyde Cook, a salesman with the company, told deputies that the man came to the lot early Monday morning, looked over the cars, and asked if he could test drive one. The man stated that he wanted his wife to see it.

The unidentified man drove the $1,295 sports coupe off the lot and had not returned by Wednesday afternoon when the report of the alleged theft was made to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's office.

Coin Hits Wallace At Youngstown

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — George C. Wallace, bothered in recent days by objects thrown at him while speaking, goes to New York's Madison Square Garden tonight.

"I don't like to get thrown at, but I guess it's all part of the game," Wallace said after he was struck in the face by a coin Wednesday during a speech in Youngstown, Ohio.

The previous day in Oskosh, Wis., the presidential candidate was struck on the shoulder by an apple core.

"This is something new in this campaign," Wallace said. "But I've been thrown at before and I'm used to it. I'm certainly not afraid."

During the speech at Youngstown, the following objects sailed toward Wallace from the crowd, in addition to the coin—a penny—which hit him on the cheekbone without injury: A spool of electrician's tape, a rock the size of a mothball and an egg which smashed about 20 feet behind him.

"That's it, throw something,"

After the Youngstown speech, Wallace flew to Virginia's Shenandoah Valley for a rally, one of the most successful of his campaign, at the Roanoke-Salem Civic Center.

The speech was to a standing-room-only crowd of 7,000 or more, and amplifiers placed outside broadcast Wallace's message to the hundreds who could not get in. Fifty or more students from nearby colleges staged a "silent protest" in one section of the audience, holding placards and Bibles aloft and waving small black and white flags.

The pro-Wallace audience seemed to work like a tonic on the speaker, and he was in top rhetorical form, bringing the crowd to its feet time after time with his pledges to return schools to local control, restore law and order in the cities and end the Vietnam war militarily.

Five People Sentenced In County Court

Jail sentences awaited two and probation three people as they were called before the bench of Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer Wednesday.

Charles Hampp, Circleville, was charged with grand larceny. Hampp pleaded guilty to having broken into White's TV and Appliance Store on June 3, and stealing $90 worth of radios.

Hampp was on probation at the time of the offense. He had previously been tried and found guilty of grand larceny and breaking and entering.

He was sentenced to 1-7 years at hard labor for the most recent incident of grand larceny. Probation on the other offenses which carried sentences of 1-7 years, were revoked. The three sentences are to be served concurrently at Mansfield Reformatory.

CAROL Rose, Circleville, pleaded guilty to charges of forgery, issuing checks without an account and issuing a check with insufficient funds. She stated that she used the money to buy food for her children.

A sentence of 1-20 years was imposed on the first charge. 30 days in county jail on the second and one to seven years on the third charge. The county jail sentence was suspended and the two remaining sentences were ordered to be served concurrently at Marysville Reformatory.

John Parrish Jr., Dayton, was charged with grand larceny for stealing a $200 auto transmission from Deercreek Auto Parts, Williamsport. Sunday.

Parrish, who pleaded guilty to the charge, stated that he had come to Circleville with friends to see the Pumpkin Show. He told the judge that he really didn't know what he was doing when he took the transmission.

Parrish was placed on three year's probation and ordered not to return to Pickaway County.

Marie and James Campbell, Lower Lane, entered pleas of guilty to charges of forging a check. The check was a neighbor's social security check for $44.30.

Both were placed on three year's probation.

being conducted in the county was issued by Sheriff Dwight Radcliff Thursday. The sheriff stated that magazine salesmen are misrepresenting the costs of magazines they are selling. The salesmen state that the customer will be charged only for handling costs if he tries a trial subscription, but by the time the customer pays the charges the price is several times higher than normal.

WITH the approaching presidential election many people and groups are holding polls of their own to determine which candidate will win. Eighth graders at Monroe Twp. School held a mock election recently for that same purpose. Nixon won with 57 votes, Wallace had 15 votes, Humphrey, 2, and Paulsen, 13.

Test Drive Ends As Auto Theft

A pleasantly dressed man entered the Clif on Motor Sales lot Monday, asked to test drive one of the cars, took it out of the lot and never returned, according to a sheriff's report.

Clyde Cook, a salesman with the company, told deputies that the man came to the lot early Monday morning, looked over the cars, and asked if he could test drive one. The man stated that he wanted his wife to see it.

The unidentified man drove the $1,295 sports coupe off the lot and had not returned by Wednesday afternoon when the report of the alleged theft was made to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The incident is still under investigation by the sheriff's office.

Coin Hits Wallace At Youngstown

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — George C. Wallace, bothered in recent days by objects thrown at him while speaking, goes to New York's Madison Square Garden tonight.

"I don't like to get thrown at, but I guess it's all part of the game," Wallace said after he was struck in the face by a coin Wednesday during a speech in Youngstown, Ohio.

The previous day in Oshkosh, Wis. the presidential candidate was struck on the shoulder by an apple core.

"This is something new in this campaign," Wallace said. "But I've been thrown at before and I'm used to it. I'm certainly not afraid."

During the speech at Youngstown, the following objects sailed toward Wallace from the crowd, in addition to the coin—a penny—which hit him on the cheekbone without injury: A spool of electrician's tape, a rock the size of a mothball and an egg which smashed about 20 feet behind him.

"That's it, throw something,"

Wallace yelled after he was hit. "You're quite a fellow, you are. I can take anything you anarchists can dish out, remember that."

After the Youngstown speech, Wallace flew to Virginia's Shenandoah Valley for a rally, one of the most successful of his campaign, at the Roanoke-Salem Civic Center.

The speech was to a standing-room-only crowd of 7,000 or more, and amplifiers placed outside broadcast Wallace's message to the hundreds who could not get in.

Fifty or more students from nearby colleges staged a "silent protest" in one section of the audience, holding placards and Bibles aloft and waving small black and white flags.

The pro-Wallace audience seemed to work like a tonic on the speaker, and he was in top rhetorical form, bringing the crowd to its feet time after time with his pledges to return schools to local control, restore law and order in the cities and end the Vietnam war militarily.
